REDS WIN SERIES

TAKE 7TH 2 TO 1

By JOE CASHMAN

CROSLEY FIELD, CINCINNATI, Oct 8—Bill McKechnie smashed the American League's baseball supremacy myth here today when he escorted his National League champion Cincinnati Reds to victory over the Detroit Tigers in the seventh and final game of the 1940 World Series. A crowd of 30,000 fans, mostly Cincinnati folk, went wild as the Reds captured the world's championship.

Play-by-Play

FIRST INNING

TIGERS—Bartell lined to Myers. McCosky flied to M. McCormick. Gehringer flied to Ripple. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

SECOND INNING

TIGERS—Greenberg smashed a single off Myers' glove. Werber made a great play to throw out York. Greenberg taking second. Campbell hit back to Derringer and Greenberg was run down between second and third, Derringer to Myers to Werber to Joost. Campbell going to second. Joost threw out Higgins. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

THIRD INNING

TIGERS—Sullivan made a hit off F. McCormick's glove. Newsom sacrificed, F. McCormick to Joost. Bartell popped to Joost. McCosky walked. Gehringer beat out a hit to Werber and when Werber threw wild to F. McCormick, Sullivan scored and McCosky went to third. Greenberg struck out. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR, TWO LEFT.

REDS—Myers singled to left. Derringer, trying to sacrifice, popped to Newsom. Werber forced Myers, Higgins to Gehringer. M. McCormick fanned. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

FOURTH INNING

TIGERS—York fouled to Wilson. Campbell flied to Goodman. Higgins doubled. Sullivan purposely passed. Newsom grounder hit Higgins leg. Third out, Myers getting the put out. Newsom getting a single. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS. TWO LEFT.

SEVENTH INNING

TIGERS—Newsom popped to Joost. Bartell lined to Werber. McCosky lined to McCormick. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

REDS—F. McCormick doubled to score board. Ripple doubled off right field score screen, scoring F. McCormick, while Bartell held the ball in his hand, when he had plenty of time to throw to the plate and cut off the run. Apparently he thought the ball was a home run. Wilson sacrificed, Higgins to Gehringer. Lombardi batted for Joost and was intentionally passed. Frey running for Lombardi. Myers chased McCosky to the centerfield wall for his long fly, Ripple scoring after the catch. Derringer forced Frey, Higgins to Gehringer. TWO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS AND ONE LEFT.

EIGHTH INNING

TIGERS—Frey now playing second base, Gehringer singled to right. Greenberg lined to Myers. York flied to McCormick. Campbell flied to Goodman. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

REDS—Werber struck out. M. McCormick beat out a bunt down the third base line. Goodman struck out. F. McCormick popped to Bartell. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

NINTH INNING

TIGERS—Higgins is up. Werber threw out Higgins.

Sullivan grounded to F. McCormick. Averill batted to Newsom. Frye threw out Averill. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

AMERICANS TO FLEE JAPAN

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8 (AP)—United States consulates throughout the whole theater of the Chinese-Japanese war have been instructed by the State Department to advise United States citizens to return home as soon as possible, it was reported authoritatively today.

U. S. Navy Blocks Axis Aid for Japs, Churchill Warns

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Winston Churchill announced in the House of Commons today that Britain on Oct. 17 would reopen the Burma war supply road to China in answer to Japan's pact with Germany and Italy and declared Japan's new allies would not be able to help her so long as the British and United States fleets "are in being."

"They will be!" the Commons roared back.

It was another of the British Prime Minister's dramatic war reports, and he ended it with this peroration:

"Long, dark months of trial and tribulation lie before us. Not only great dangers but many more misfortunes, many shortcomings, many mistakes, many disappointments, will surely be our lot. Death and sorrow will be the companions of our journey; hardship our garment; constancy and valor our only shield."

PACT THREATENS U. S.

The Prime Minister declared flatly that the three-way Axis pact "binds Japan to attack the United States if the United States comes into the war," hinted it contained secret clauses and then cried defiantly:

"Neither of the branches of the English-speaking race is accustomed to react to threats of violence by submission.

"And certainly the reception of this strange and ill-balanced declaration in the United States has not been at all encouraging for its authors."

Churchill also charged the tripower pact "in a secondary degree is a point against Russia," although "primarily" aimed at the United States.

8500 KILLED IN MONTH

Churchill's hour-long war report made these other points, even while London's anti-aircraft guns rumbled faintly in the distance:

1—Hitler's month-old air total warfare on London and Britain's other great cities is diminishing in force, although 8500 people have been killed and 13,000 wounded since the start of the war and despite the use, since Sept. 7, of an average of nearly 400 long-range bombers daily.

2—Disciplinary action has been taken against persons responsible for "errors" in the ill-fated Anglo-French expedition against Dakar, by which French warships were allowed to pass the Straits of Gibraltar and defend the Senegalese colony.

Churchill disclosed that one British battleship and one heavy cruiser were damaged at Dakar; that two Vichy submarines were sunk, two destroyers fired, one cruiser was hit and the crippled battleship Richelieu further damaged by the British.

DEFIANCE TO HITLER

He reaffirmed Britain's backing of the "free French" cause.

Again, the prime minister kept the British on the alert against invasion dangers, declaring that Germany was keeping several hundred short range dive bombers at home, perhaps, "in reserve for a general plan of invasion."

Churchill conceded that the property damage from the German air raids had been severe, but he declared at the present rate of destruction it would take Hitler ten years to demolish half the homes of London and "quite a lot of things are going to happen to Hitler . . . before ten years."

Churchill set the date for the reopening of the Burma road at Oct.

This covered the whole Japanese empire, all of China, Manchoukuo, Hongkong and French Indo-China.

Coming at a moment of sharpening tension between Japan and the United States and Japan and Britain, it meant that these zones in Asia were to be placed on the same basis as Europe in August, 1939, on the eve of the outbreak of the European war.

United States citizens in Europe then were urged to leave without delay.

The reported instructions from Washington follow within two weeks upon Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy in a three-power military pact generally regarded as aimed at the United States.

JAPS SEIZE ISLAND

They also coincided with a report that the Japanese navy had landed forces on Liu Kung island, off Shantung peninsula, where the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek recently renewed a British lease for 10 years.

In London, at the same time, Prime Minister Churchill announced that Britain would not renew the British - Japanese agreement which closed the Burma road to war supplies for China for the three months ending Oct. 17. The road will reopen on that date.—Editor's note.

It was understood consular officials were told to advise Americans to take advantage of transportation facilities immediately be-

MUSSOLINI WARNS U. S. OF AXIS WAR UNLESS AID STOPS

ROME, Oct. 8 (AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia warned the United States today that Germany, Italy and Japan were ready to go to war with the United States if America rejected the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis' mutual "living space" offers and preferred instead to "throw down the gantlet."

Appelius, the newspaper's military commentator, said America's furnishing of arms to Great Britain, her readiness to permit Canadian civilian pilots to train in the United States, the blocking of raw materials to England's enemies, the sequestration of the gold of Europe's beaten and occupied nations, and finally the British-American plan for joint air and naval bases were "more tha violations of neutrality."

Appelius asserted these were "true and genuine acts of hostility."

So long as the joint naval and air bases were confined to the American continent, Appelius said, the axis winked at them "in tribute to the principle of vital space."

But he assertel, talk of including Java, Singapore "and even Dakar" made the warning implicit in the tripartite Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact necessary.

Nazis Bomb London Crowds and Buses

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Elusive German raiders flying so high they were not visible to their victims slipped over London in four lightning raids today, dropping bombs helter skelter among streets filled with buses and pedestrians in one of the most calamitous attacks yet experienced by this bomb-wise capital.

Bombs which fell without warning blasted a bus filled with passengers into almost unrecognizable wreckage, knocked a row of nearby shops into a mass of rubble, blew out half the leaded windows from the front of a row of famous houses several hundred years old and did much other damage in many streets.

Three German planes were shot down during raids on London, Kent and Sussex, the air ministry announced.

These daylight attacks followed a night-long raid in which a large west end store was wrecked, a famous west end office structure damaged, a church roof collapsed, a hospital hit, huge pieces of masonry torn from a large bank building and considerable other damage was done.

(Censorship prevented more definite identification of these objectives.)

The British Press Association described the four raids coming as Londoners were going to work as "murderous."

Then pedestrians and bus passengers shouted and scrambled for cover. Some were believed killed when the store fronts under which they flung themselves were crumpled.

Stretcher bearers and ambulances dashed to the scene. Trucks were pressed into service to carry away the wounded. First aid was

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS)—Secretary of State Hull today indicated that this government is considering withdrawal of American marines from Shanghai, Tientsin and Peiping.

Italian Supply Line Cut in East Africa

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Aden said today one of them ost vitel Italian suply lines on East Africa has ben cut by bombing during the last few days of Aisha, important station on the Jibuti-Addis Ababa railway.

BRITISH ENVOY SEES F. D. ON JAP CRISIS, VOIDS TRIP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The British ambassador, Lord Lothian, asserted after a White House call today that his government had ordered him to cancel plans to return to England because "they think there may be a crisis in the Far East."

Asked how soon the British government thought a Far East crisis might develop, Lord Lothian said it might come through the reopening of the Burma road, a supply line to China.

Lothian said he had been ordered on Sunday to fly back to England.

Shortly before the Roosevelt-Lothian conference, the State Department announced American citizens in the Far East, including all of Japan and China, were being asked to consider the advisability of returning home at this time because of disturbed conditions.

The Japanese ambassador, Kensuke Horinouchi, called on Secretary Hull, meanwhile, and in some quarters it was believed that he had informally expressed objections to the embargo which President Roosevelt ordered on shipments of steel and iron scrap to Japan. The order becomes effective Oct. 16.

The ambassador was unusually non-committal. He said Japan's new alliance with Germany and Italy was not discussed directly.

He said he had not been informed, before his conversation with newsmen, of the warning to Americans in the Orient, but he indicated he did not expect any such move by Tokyo with regard to Japanese in this country, at least for the present.

Lothian said he had not discussed the warning with Mr. Roosevelt. He did not know, he said, whether his government was similarly advising Britons to clear out of potential danger areas.

State Department officials said American consuls in Japan, China and other parts of the Orient had been notified to suggest to American citizens the advisability of utilizing transportation facilities now available.

This was described as a continuation of the precautionary policy of the government regarding safety of American citizens in various parts of the world.

The advice was directed especially to women and children and men not detained by essential or urgent considerations.

American consuls were instructed to notify the State Department of the number of Americans who are coming out or are considering coming out.

Meanwhile conversations initiated weeks ago over trade relations but later broken off, were revived between the United States and Soviet Russia. This led to speculation over the possibility of eventual United States-British-Russian collaboration in view of the common concern of all three nations with Far Eastern affairs.

The new United States-Russian conversations appeared to be aimed first at removal of what were considered relatively minor points of friction between the two countries.

The United States repeatedly had stated its opposition to Britain's closing of the road last July in response to Japanese pressure.

HELEN DOMBROSKI IN CITY HOSPITAL

Homesick Runaway Tried Suicide . . . Happy Now

AMERICAN FINDS SAD RUNAWAY GIRL

Mrs. Antoinette New of 307 South 5th st., Darby, Pa., need worry no longer about the 18-year-old runaway sister who wrote a letter home from here threatening suicide.

The girl did try suicide, but she has been found, and she's only counting the hours now to the reunion.

Mrs. New's appeal for aid, addressed "Boston Newspaper," was turned over exclusively to the Boston Post by the postoffice department. It was published in that paper today.

Within a few hours, lacking the last names of the principals, which were not printed in the Post, the Boston Evening American found the missing girl, Helen Dombrowski, at Boston City Hospital.

JUST HOMESICK

Runaway Helen and the mysterious Elizabeth Brow, who has been at the hospital since Saturday when she plunged off the Chelsea st. bridge into Chelsea creek, are one and the same.

Mrs. New, over long-distance phone, has been notified by the Boston Evening American. And Helen—

"I'm glad it's over," she said. "I don't know why I ever ran away or how Antoinette can forgive me, but if she says she does, she does, and I can't wait to get back."

The young blonde leaned back on her pillow and wept a few quiet tears and then told a Boston American reporter:

"It was just as I said in the letter I wrote home. I was homesick.

"I've been homesick since the first day I left. I began to think of dying that day.

URGE TO SEE WORLD

"Girls are funny, I suppose, but I was happy at home with my sister and Yet I thought it was all very dull.

"I decided all of a sudden to jump on a bus and go somewhere. I wanted to see something of the world and do something.

"I hadn't any plan where I was going, but after I got on the bus I decided I'd try Boston, because I was born in Providence and Boston always seemed to be an exciting place to go.

"Well, I got here and I found a room in Charlestown—that's where I told the police I had been living, you know, and that was right. Only I didn't live in the same house all the time.

"I moved from one room to another and my money lasted for a month. One of the weeks I had a job as a saleslgirl. I don't think I'll say where.

THOUGHTS OF DEATH

"I had some good times, I guess, but I was homesick. I said I thought of dying the first day I was in Boston. That's right. And I kept thinking about it all the more each day. Even when I was going around.

"Last Friday night I made up my mind about it. I had a date with some boys and girls and we went ut and danced and had sandwiches and lots of fun but about one o'clock in the morning I got very sleepy.'

"That wasn't right what one newspaper printed about me crying in a Charlestown cafe. I didn't weep a tear. I was happy, but sleepy, and I wanted a long sleep.

"That's how I happened to go over the bridge."

Convict's Story Of Murder Night Told Rice Jurors

EDGARTOWN, Oct. 8—A gray-haired jail matron electrified a thronged courtroom here today by testifying that John Thomas, alias Harold Tracey, ex-convict employed at the Rice school as electrician, had told her while a prisoner at Duke's County jail that on the morning of the murder of Mrs. Clara M. Smith he awoke from a drunken stupor on the steps of Sumner Hall dormitory.

It was in the same dormitory where a few hours later the battered body of Mrs. Smith was found. It is on a charge of her murder that Ralph Huntington Rice, 54-year-old drama instructor, is on trial.

The matron, Mrs. Edna Mercer, wife of Jailer Nathan Mercer, testified that during Tracey's term at the jail he had knocked on the door of her room and requested writing paper.

"He said he had to write a letter to friends; that it was important to find out who he was with that Saturday night," Mrs. Mercer testified.

WITH TWO FRIENDS

"He said he went out that night with two friends and got drunk, and that when he awoke from a drunken stupor Sunday morning he found himself on the steps of the Sumner dormitory."

Asked by Asst. Dist. Atty. Smith why she had never told of this incident before to investigating officers, Mrs. Mercer answered:

"I thought it was known. I first told it last Saturday to Mr. Rice and to my husband."

Mrs. Mercer had followed Tracey on the stand and after her testimony Rice took the stand in his own behalf.

Tracey, a voluntary witness under a writ of habeas corpus from Barnstable jail, where he is serving a term for illegal possession of a gun, was warned by Judge Raoul Boudreau that he was not compelled to testify. He replied he was ready to answer all questions.

DENIES HER STORY

He denied he had told Mrs. Mercer the story she related.

Q—You got drunk Saturday night, didn't you, with Moll and Schwartz? A—Yes.

Q—Did you find yourself on the stairway of Sumner Hall? A—No.

Shown a letter, Tracey identified it as one he had written to Miss Massow, a previous witness.

Q—In that letter did you threaten to commit suicide? A—No.

The letter was read by Judge

Christmas Tree Cash to Aid Britain

OTTAWA, Oct. 8 (AP) — The money which many Americans will spend for Christmas trees in December may help purchase warplanes for the defense of Britain.

Millions of Canadian evergreens will start moving into the United States next month, providing Canada with American exchange to purchase war supplies.

Strange story is pieced together by Key West police, who raided home of X-ray expert Karl Tanzler van Cosel, 70, where on one of twin beds they found the preserved wax-annointed body of beautiful Elena Hoyos, who had been dead nine years. For that time, Van Cosel had slept on the other bed . . . trying, by day, to restore her to life.

All-American Air Squadron Joins RAF

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The first British fighter squadron composed entirely of American pilots will shortly take its place in the front line of Britain's defenders, Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair announced today.

The unit, which will be known as the Eagle squadron, will be commanded in action by Squadron Leader William Edwin Gibson Taylor of New York.

Col. Charles Sweeny, who ranked as a group captain in the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, will be honorary commanding officer.

The squadron will form a part of the regular RAF and its members will wear a special badge, approved by King George VI, consisting of an eagle with wings spread surmounted by the letters "E. S." The Americans will wear the regular RAF uniform of sky blue.

None but qualified pilots with at least 250 hours of flying time are accepted in the Eagle Squadron.

They are not required to take an oath of allegiance to the King.

Man Is Shot Twice In West End Street

Waylaid by three men, one in a white coat, Salvatore Carresi, 46-year-old North End character known as "The Student," was shot down today at Hale and Green sts., West End.

Carresi was critically wounded. He was taken to City Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list as doctors prepared to operate.

With a police record of 30 years, Carresi was no stranger to authorities and within an hour of the shooting one man was already in custody for questioning.

He is a drug clerk in a West End store close to the scene of the murderous assault. Detectives were told that Carresi had been in an argument with a druggist earlier in the morning. And witnesses had told of "a man with a white coat."

MANY ALIASES

The victim's record at police headquarters gives him many aliases, in addition to his nickname, "The Student"—the latter because he wore flashy clothing of the collegiate type.

First arrested in January, 1909, Carresi was sent to Concord reformatory. Later he served in Charles st. jail.

In 1927 he was held for questioning in connection with the Brighton slaying of Luigi "Tough Louie" diBonis, night club "bouncer," but later released.

Several witnesses, according to police, saw the shooting.

The man in the white coat, they said, was flanked by two others when they confronted Carresi on the sidewalk.

Carresi ran out into the street and three shots rang out. As he dropped, the trio fled.

Two shells were picked up and these Sergt. Charles Bailey, ballistics expert, took for study at police headquarters.

As the man lay gasping for breath on the operating table, Sergt. Joseph Fallon of the headquarters homicide squad was by his side, hoping to get some statement that would name the attempted killed.

The shooting took place in broad daylight in a section thickly populated and where a large number of persons pass, making it harder to trace the getaway of the attackers.

Carresi's name last appears on police records for July 29, 1938, when he fled his home in Endicott st, as a police car arrived at a nearby house to quell a disturbance.

Thinking police were after him, he raced to the Charlestown bridge and dived into the water before anyone could halt him. He was fished out by harbor police and treated at City Hospital for immersion.

Married, he has been known as Saebo Carrese, Sarbo Carresi, Salvatore Carisi and James Ward. He had had numerous addresses in the West and North ends and in East Boston.

2000 VIEW CORPSE KEPT FOR 7 YEARS

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 8 (AP)—The fantastic story of an old man, who sought to restore life to a young woman he loved, attracted throngs to an undertaking establishment for a glimpse of the corpse he kept in his bedroom for seven years.

More than 2000 Key Westers yesterday filed past the remains, which Karl Tanzler Van Cosel said he wax-moulded into a likeness of the beautiful matron who died nine years ago at the age of 19.

Karl Van Cosel

Van Cosel, 70-year-old X-ray expert formerly at the Marine Hospital here, remained in jail in default of $1000 bond.

He faced a hearing in Justice of the Peace court today on a charge of "maliciously" disturbing the contents of a tomb, but County Solicitor Allan B. Cleary, Jr., said that, regardless of the outcome, a sanity hearing would be held.

"I wouldn't like to assume the responsibility of turning loose this man without an examination by a competent psychiatrist and a decision by a board of examiners," Cleare declared.

"His existence has been woven around the memory of a girl for the last several years and no one knows how he will react if he feels he has lost the body forever."

Mrs. Mario Medina, sister of the dead girl, Elena Hoyos, said she was determined that the body would be buried again in the ground "to rot there like all her ancestors."

Van Cosel appeared surprised that he should be arrested, declaring:

"I promised Elena that I would take care of her no matter what happened. Her father told me I could take care of her body. She was so beautiful I wanted to preserve her and to try my experiments to see whether life could be restored."

Pilot, Passenger Die In Costa Rica Crash

SANTA ANA, Costa Rica, Oct. 8 (AP)—Enrique Maleck, Panaman pilot of a Central American Airlines plane, and all of his passengers were killed today when the plane crashed into a mountainside near here. The number on board was not immediately disclosed.

Ford Co. Wins, Loses in Ruling

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—The U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals held today that the National Labor Relations Act grants no sanction "for an invasion of the liberties guaranteed to all citizens by the first amendment" of the U. S. Constitution.

The tribunal ruled in refusing to uphold a national labor board order that the Ford Motor Co. cease distributing to its employes pamphlets outlining the firm's views on unionization of its plants.

At the same time, the court granted an enforcement order for part of a NLRB ruling to require the Ford company to cease and desist alleged interference with employes in exercising collective bargaining rights.

Tobin Trustee Of Cahill Fund

Mayor Tobin was today revealed as one of three trustees of a $150,000 fund to be used for recreation purposes for the people of Boston, left by Michael Francis Cahill, Boston manufacturer, who died Jan. 4, 1928.

In proceedings brought in Suffolk Probate Court it was disclosed that Cahill had bequeathed the residue of his estate to next of kin, and that on the latter's death it was to revert to the city of Boston in trust. The will stipulated:

"The city of Boston to use the income for some new or special recreation for the people of Boston which has not been provided for by other trusts or funds now held by the city."

The court case came up today when executors of the will filed a petition for instruction on disposition of the fund. The court ruled that the fund should first go to the city.

TAX TALK HEARD BY DISTRIBUTORS

The government is facing a problem in trying to gauge the consumer's reaction to increased taxation, Prof. Carl Shoup of the department of economics at Columbia University declared today in an address before the 12th Boston Conference on Distribution at the Hotel Statler.

Speaking on the subject, "Taxes and Consumer Spending," Prof. Shoup told his audience of 1000 economists and business executives that increased taxation and its effects on public spending were of extreme national importance.

LUXURY TREND

"Recent study has shown a trend to switch from one luxury to another when the tax goes up on both," Shoup said.

"A great many cigarette smokers may choose to smoke as many as before the tax was imposed, and make up for the increased cost by cutting down on gasoline consumption.

"Increases and decreases in a tax on a single commodity may have any number of effects on the government's revenue. No study of this situation has been made. It will not be made except through collaboration of business and tax economists."

Its tone, distinctly pro-British in regard to export of raw materials and urging the set-up of national preparedness, the conference swung into its closing session today.

LAUDS NEWSPAPERS

The devotion of newspapers to the public interest is unqualified, Edwin S. Friendly, business manager of the New York Sun, told conference delegates at their noon luncheon.

"The newspaper's role in war economy is a many-sided one," Friendly said. "On the economic side, it is chiefly maintaining unimpaired distribution of essential goods and services without disrupting defense preparations. On the business side, it is largely preserving peacetime identities, values and opportunities. On the human side, it is rallying all citizens to a common cause and placing patriotic interests above all others.

MUST GUARD FREEDOM

"Newspapers have provided, and will continue to provide, open forums so that the voice of the people may be heard. But newspapers have provided, and will continue to provide, forums for the voice of business.

"Every threat to freedom of the press is a threat to freedom of thought, freedom of conscience and freedom of worship. Freedom is like garlic. There is no such thing as a little of it.

"In war, even more than in peace, the newspapers must watch out for government dishonesty. Alert newspapers will not be deceived by the labels, 'Pure Democracy' or 'Guaranteed Patriotic.' They will find out what's inside and tell about it."

Scheduled to speak on "Fashions in Cosmetics" was Miss Elizabeth Arden, national authority on cosmetics, Mlle. Elsa Schiaparelli, internationally famous Paris dress designer was also to be heard.

Another speaker was Asst. U. S. Atty.-Gen. Thurman Arnold, who discussed "Government and Business."

Boston Voters Near Record

Boston is headed for an all-time high record in registration of voters, Chairman William A. Motley of the board of election commissioners announced today.

During the past 24 hours, he said, there had been a rush of 2642 persons to register; of these 1541 were women. This number brought the total registered since Oct. 2 to 10,600, swelling the voters' lists to 360,802.

"If it doesn't rain tonight," Chairman Motley said, "we expect that the record peak of 363,201 in 1938 may be reached. With registration to continue to Oct. 16, we may expect the total Boston registration to reach 385,000."

Another Week To Register

Don't forget to register!

Registration for the November elections in the 22 Boston wards is being held and will continue daily through Oct. 15, with the exception of Sundays and holidays, from 6 to 10 p. m.

If you are not registered, be sure to acquaint yourself with the nearest place of registration before it is too late. Vote! City Hall will be open for registration during the usual working hours through Oct. 16.

GIRL AND FIANCE ATTACK VICTIMS

In the same institution, also with a fractured skull, lay George Cavallini, 19, Pitman st., Somerville, her fiance, who was with her when the vicious assault occurred near Fresh Pond.

Hospital officials placed the girl's name on the danger list when she was found suffering from intercranial hemorrhages. Twenty-seven stitches were required to close the ragged cuts on her scalp.

Miss Bergeron and Cavallini, who became engaged several weeks ago, were sitting on a bench in Kingsley Park, on the shore of Fresh Pond, a short distance from the Cambridge water department filtration plant, when a man crept up behind them.

George Cavallini

With one murderous blow, he brought a four-foot club down on their heads. When the girl screamed for help, he rained more blows on the couple until both were knocked unconscious.

SEE YOUTH ESCAPE

Leaving them battered and bleeding, he cast the bludgeon aside and ran off. City employes at the filtration plant, hearing the screams of Miss Bergeron, reported seeing a youth in dark clothing run toward Huron ave., Cambridge.

The attacker's club, found by a squad of officers led by Sgt. John D. Finnegan and Inspector Joseph O'Connor of Cambridge, was stained with blood. The instrument was a four-foot root fragment with a jagged, mallet-like end.

Neither victim could account for the mysterious attack, although police considered a theory that the assailant may have been a jealous admirer of the girl.

THIRD ATTACK CASE

The couple were attacked without warning, the third case since Saturday of ferocious assault against young women in Greater Boston.

Although critically injured, Miss Bergeron regained consciousness at the Cambride City Hospital sufficiently to tell the police something of the attack.

"I was leaning my head on George's shoulder when I heard footsteps behind us," she said.

"Just as I started to turn, something hit me. It was such a terrible jolt that I couldn't see or feel a thing—just stunned. But I remember being hit two or three times more before everything went black."

SUSPECT QUIZZED

Several hours after the assault, detective officers took a 18-year-old youth to Cambridge police headquarters for questioning.

Miss Bergeron, known to her friends as "Dolly," was graduated last June from Cambridge High and Latin School.

Package Scare Halts F. D. Train

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's special train rolled into Union Station today after a 40-minute delay attributed by Secretary Stephen Early to the discovery of a package — which turned out to be empty—under a trestle on the line of travel.

Early said the package was only a cheap, empty jewel case which a man, spotted by a trackwalker, apparently had tried to hide.

The railroad employe telephoned Albany and the secret service there dispatched state troopers to the bridge. After a search disclosed nothing but the jewel case, the train was allowed to proceed.

Willkie Invades N.Y. Area of Boss Flynn

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—From neighboring New Jersey, where he accused President Roosevelt of seeking "to perpetuate his power through petty Hitlers," Wendell L. Willkie brought his presidential drive today into the home territory of the Democratic campaign manager.

After a noonday tour of the picturesque garment and theatrical centers, the Republican nominee will speak tonight in the Bronx, residence of Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn.

Aides expect him to take that occasion to renew the charge he made in a speech last night at Newark, N. J., that "we have political machines just like the Nazi party . . . operated by little pigmy Hitlers." He added the word "pigmy" to his prepared text.

In that address Willkie linked Flynn, whom he called "boss of the Bronx," with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and "the commmissioner of sewers" in Chicago as "pillars of the New Deal democracy."

To the applause and cheers of a crowd in the Newark stadium estimated by police at 32,000, he shouted:

BOSSES VERSUS PEOPLE

"This is the issue we Republicans have with the New Deal. The New Deal relies on political bosses. The Republican party relies on the people.

"We are ranged in battle against threatening forces. We are fighting against forces of federal spending, federal patronage, corrupt city machines, and smear propaganda."

The President, Willkie asserted, "not only has pushed America close to the war in Europe and Asia," but now seeks "to drag the wars of Europe and Asia into American politics."

"He tells us that he, and he alone, represents democracy," the candidate continued. "But I say that he cannot represent the democracy that I stand for while he seeks to perpetuate his power through petty Hitlers in our own land. . . .

"That is democracy already on the way to dictatorship."

The Newark speech closed a fast 12-hour campaign trip by motorcade through northern New Jersey, where crowds gathered on city streets and country highways to wave flags or applaud the Republican standard bearer.

Willkie returned to his Fifth ave. apartment last night after the Newark speech and had an opportunity for a longer rest than customary before setting out again at 11:30 a. m. Eastern standard time. On many recent days his campaigning has begun at 8 a. m.

But he will make up for it by speaking until midnight. Following a talk at a Bronx high school early in the evening he will take part in a question and answer broadcast about the campaign. It will be broadcast by NBC Red Network at 10:30 p. m.

Then he will drive through Harlem and other parts of upper Manhattan, winding up with a street corner talk at 125th st. Five minutes later he will leave on his special train to spend the remainder of the week in New England.

INTRUDER FLEES HER

PLUCKY Florence Atwood, 16-year-old Franklin st., East Somerville, girl, awakened from sleep to find prowler in her bedroom. She clawed and bit him, forcing him to jump 15 feet from the second story.

Big Police Guard For Willkie Here

With the forecast that more than 2,000,000 persons will see Wendell Willkie in his two-day swing through Massachusetts cities, police of a dozen industrial centers today mapped plans to safeguard the Republican nominee.

BODYGUARD ASSIGNED

Besides six detectives assigned as a bodyguard, a motorcycle escort will meet his cavalcade when it reaches Mattapan sq. about 1 p. m. Friday. Uniformed officers will guard the route which follows Blue Hill ave., Seaver st., Columbus, Massachusetts and Commonwealth aves. to Hotel Somerset.

After luncheon, Willkie will speed to Cambridge for a rally and will return to Boston via East Boston, Day sq., the Sumner Tunnel, Hanover, Tremont and Boylston sts., to the Hotel Statler. There he will rest in preparation for his address Friday evening at National League Field.

Police of Lowell, which he visits the following day, have prepared for a crowd of 100,000, while authorities in Lawrence and Haverhill are expecting a turnout of a similar throng.

SEES WORCESTER

Worcester is expected to be jampacked for a Willkie address, as the train bearing the nominee will arrive there just at the time a K. of C. parade is breaking up and throngs are pouring out from the Carnegie Tech-Holy Cross football game.

Aides' Fear of Defeat Bringing F. D. to Hub

President Roosevelt is expected to come to Massachusetts the latter part of this month in the interests of his own candidacy and also to give support to the state ticket, it was learned today.

Although the President has repeatedly denied that he intends to visit this section of the country during the campaign, sources close to the White House revealed that the Chief Executive's change of mind was based on appeals made by leading Democrats in Massachusetts.

TO COUNTERACT GOP

Fear that the state might be won over by the Republicans on Nov. 5 because of the strong fight being waged by the G. O. P. and also the impressions that will be left by Wendell Willkie, following his two-day visit in this state, Friday and Saturday caused the local Democrats to seek the presidential visit.

The question as to the date of President Roosevelt's contemplated visit is still uncertain.

It was learned, however, that due to the great interest being taken by the nation's Chief Executive in connection with the national defense program, he would personally dedicate the new $750,000 Westover Airbase, in Chicopee, which is near completion, on his Bay State trip.

SPEAKS IN HUB

Following the airport ceremonies the President would come to Boston and deliver a political speech. It was also stated by Democratic leaders in this section that President Roosevelt, before returning to Washington, would go to Manchester, N. H.

Chairman William Burke of the State Democratic Committee, reluctant to discuss the proposed visit of President Roosevelt to newspapermen, admitted that the Chief Executive had been asked to come to Massachusetts in the interest of the Democratic party.

Realizing that a bitter fight lies ahead if the Democrats want to repeat their victories of 1928-32 and '36 in Massachusetts, has caused the National Democratic Committee to sit up and take notice.

JACKSON COMING

In the interests of a third term for Roosevelt and bolster up the state ticket candidates outstanding national New Dealers will make their appearance in this state next week.

Atty.-Gen. Robert Jackson, scheduled to speak here Oct 16, in connection with the fall dinner of the Massachusetts Law Society, will lend a helping hand to the local situation.

Dean James M. Landis, of Harvard Law School, ardent New Dealer, is scheduled to speak on a national radio hookup next week in the interest of a third term.

Other arrangements for a huge rally in Mechanics Building at which Democratic candidates for state office will spur up their campaigns also are underway.

Democratic observers will watch closely and measure the reception and impression Willkie will make this week in Massachusetts.

The reported speaking engagement of the former Democratic "War Horse" Al Smith, in the interests of Willkie in Boston, has caused considerable concern in Democratic circles.

Bomb Kills Russ Princess in Bus

LONDON, Oct. 8 (INS)—Princess Catherine Galatzine of Russia, a friend of the Duchess of Kent, was among a number of persons killed instantly when a Nazi bomb scored a direct hit on a London bus today.

The bus was hit while standing at a corner, picking up and discharging passengers.

The Duchess knew Princess Catherine when she herself was Princess Marina of Greece before her marriage into the British royal family.

Delay Invasion Of Rumania

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP)—Model German troops are about to leave for Rumania, authorized sources said today, "to act both as a living example to the Rumanian army and to give the Rumanian people absolute assurance of the security at home and abroad which is necessary for reconstruction of this severely shattered state."

In contradiction to yesterday's authorized statement, these sources said no German soldier was yet on Rumanian soil, but that negotiations were started immediately after the Vienna conference Sept. 30, when Rumania agreed to territorial concessions to Hungary and Bulgaria.

Nazis Say 200 Killed in British Plane Factory

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (INS)—Two hundred persons were killed and 1000 injured as the result of a German air raid on the Fliton airplane factory on Sept. 18, it was announced today.

Attributing the information to "neutral sources" in England, the announcement said that bombs smashed the majority of the factory workshops.

Thirty-two completed British warplanes were said to have been destroyed, and 32 others under construction were similarly demolished.

U.S. SEEN NEARING WAR WITH JAPAN

(Special to the Boston Evening American)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—The belief that America's task lies in the Pacific is speedily gaining currency in diplomatic circles here today as administration counsellors advise step after step leading to economic blockade of if not military conflict with Japan.

A policy of every aid short of a declaration of war in support of England is rapidly being complemented with a fatalistic philosophy of war with Japan if necessary.

Swiftly reacting from the spirit of caution which followed Japan's joining of the axis, counselors close to the administration are now contending the present is the time to strike the finishing blow at what they consider an economically weak militaristic regime.

Some advisers are openly urging extension of embargoes with the threat of actual blockade in an attempt, as they put it, to bring Japanese leaders to their senses.

FIRM ACTION URGED

Firm united action by the Netherlands Indies, England and the United States will bring the newest axis partner to peace terms they argue in pointing out that U. S. ships operating from British Far East bases present an unbeatable combination.

So far have the designers of a new policy in U. S. relationship with Japan progressed that they have even plotted the actual steps which are necessary for either a successful blockade or a victorious war.

This new school of thought advocating immediate action is bulwarked by talk among military men of the vulnerability of Japan. They openly contend she is in a poorer strategic position for protection against bombing than any other major nation.

Military observers contend also that distances to the Dutch East Indies, Australia and the British Far East surround possible Japanese military adventures in those areas with insuperable dangers.

Once American naval units are based at Singapore and the Manila-Hongkong area, they contend, the chance of Japanese attack is virtually removed and the island nation can be easily blockaded.

SEE JAPS PREY TO ATTACK

These same observers also claim that Japan will fall easy prey to attackers. Concentration of 70 per cent of her power-driven industry is in three cities, and the flimsy, inflammable construction of buildings offer vulnerable bombing objectives, in their opinion.

For those who do not believe bold, if not provocative, steps toward a blockade are proper the persuasive argument that time is of the essence is offered.

They are told it is folly or the U. S. to worry itself sick about what Japan might do when united action with the Dutch East Indies and British Far East will dispose of the menace.

But, they insist, inaction and procrastication may change the situation and swing the tide in favor of a nation now feared.

Unique vacuum in the reasoning of those who adhere to the fatalistic philosophy of war with Japan if necessary is that all their arguments are flavored with the desire to show the world that democracies need not remain forever on the defensive.

What is best from a domestic standpoint appears to have been overwhelmed by a desire to impress Japan of the advisability of keeping hands off the possessions of England and the Netherlands

CHURCHILL OPENS BURMA ROAD, WARNS JAPAN

If, date of expiration of an agreement with Japan under which, the British had hoped, Japan would reach an agreement with China on ending their long war.

As for Spain, Churchill said, she lovers between war and peace, but she needs peace and Britain hopes she will again "take her rightful place, both as a great Mediterranean power and as a leading and famous power in the family of Europe and Christendom."

The British-supported attempt Sept. 23 by Gen. Charles De Gaulle's "free French" forces to take over Dakar, in French West Africa, he went on, resulted in a "series of accidents and some errors which have been made the subject of disciplinary action, or now are subject to formal inquiries."

Neither the first sea lord nor the inner war cabinet, he said, were informed of the approach of French warships which sailed unmolested through the Strait of Gibraltar until it was too late to stop them.

Air raid casualty tolls, including 1500 killed, ha ddeclined steadily, he said, from more than 6000 in the first week, to tabout 5000 in the second week, about 4000 in the third and 3000 last week.

WHILE RAIDERS ROAR

As he spoke the sound of anti-aircraft gunfire came faintly from the distance.

Churchill explained that closing of the Burma road was ordered to enable Japan to compose her differences with China and had no further meaning now that Japan, instead, had entered into a triple alliance with Germany and Italy.

This alliance he called openly a revival of the anti-comintern pact.

Murmurs of approval greeted his statement that the effect of blitzkrieg had been far less damaging than some had feared, that Britain is stronger than she was three months ago, that her vital forces are more numerous rather than depleted.

England's experience with bombers has already made it possible to project compulsory retroactive insurance for property damage, he told Commons.

SAYS NAZIS LOOTING

Churchill declared Germany must also be increasing her strength by looting ocupied countries and making some use of their skilled labor.

Only the riches of the new world, becoming increasingly available, could counteract that, he said.

Germany has sent over nearly 400 long-range bombers on an average every 24 hours since Sept. 7, Churchill declared, doubling whether such sustained attack could be greatly enlarged by the luftwaffe.

Italy, he said, has experienced ahead of her not foreseen when she declared war.

As for reprisals on the German population, Churchill said: "Our object must be to inflict the maximum harm upon the warmaking capacity of Germany and that is the only object we shall pursue.

"A month has passed since Herr Hitler has turned his rage and malice on the civilian population of our great cities and particularly on London.

"Hitler declared in his speech on Sept. 4 that he would raze our cities to the ground and since then he has been trying to carry out his fell purpose. Naturally, the first question is to what extent the full strength of the German air force has been employed . . .

NAZIS BLINDLY BOMBING

"Certainly there has been continued falling off in the last week or 10 days. Since the heavy raiding began we have had a steady decline of casualties and damage to so-called vulnerable points . . .

"We know exactly what we are doing in reply and the size of our own bomber forces, and from many sources open to us believe that German heavy bomber pilots are being worked at least as hard, and it may be a great deal harder, than our own and the strain on the bomber is considerable.

"The bulk of them do not seem capable of anything beyond blind bombing.

"On the whole we may, under all reserve, reach the provisional conclusion that the Germans' average effort against this country absorbs a very considerable part of their forces and strength.

"I should not like to say we have the measure of their power, but we feel more confident now than we have ever been before."

Since Aug. 15, after a "severe mauling," Churchill said, German short range dive bombers have "been kept carefully out of air fighting."

TON WON'T KILL ONE

But he warned, they may "be held in reserve for a general plan of invasion or to operate in some other theater of war." He continued:

"We were told on Sept. 23 that 22,000 tons of explosives had been discharged upon Great Britain since the begining of the war and we were also told that on last Thursday week, 251 tons had been discharged upon London in a single night—only a few tons less than the total dropped on the whole country throughout the last war.

"One hundred eighty persons were killed in London on that night. That is to say, it took a ton of bombs to kill three-quarters of a person. In the last war, small bombs of early patterns were used and killed ten persons for every ton discharged in built-up areas.

"That is a very remarkable fact deserving profound consideration. There can be only one explanation—that vastly improved methods of shelter have been adopted.

"This appears not only to be remarkable but also reassuring and it has also altered the course of the whole of the estimates we had made of the severity of the attacks to which we could be exposed.

"People must be taught not to despise the small shelter."

Destruction of property has "been very considerable," Churchill acknowledged. He said all classes have suffered equally "as they would desire to do."

Final Draft Rules Ban Political Pull

By LEE RASHALL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (INS)—Draft headquarters tonight published official regulations signed by President Roosevelt to govern classification of 16,404,000 expected registrants for military training under the nation's first peacetime conscription.

The regulations were termed by draft officials "the most important rules to be issued in preparation for mobilization of United States manpower."

The draft's high command pronounced two outstanding principles in a preamble statement of policy:

That the entire conscription process will be completed without partiality or political influence;

That preservation of the American family as a nationally important unit will be recognized and guaranteed.

FOUR MAIN CLASSES

Status of all registrants, as to availability for service and rights to deferment, will be calculated according to four main classifications, containing 13 sub-classifications, and will depend upon family and occupational circumstances, and physical, mental and moral fitness.

The compilation of rules, crux of the draft system, comprised volume three of the selective service regulations which ultimately will fill six volumes. The first two, covering organization and registration, were signed previously by the President.

Sub-classifications are divided into four main groups: 1—Available for service. 2—Deferred because of occupational status. 3—Deferred because of dependents. 4—Deferred specifically by law or because unfit for military service.

Dr. Frederick Osborn, chairman of President Roosevelt's advisory committee on conscription, said the rules were "unexpectedly brief, and far more general in character than had been anticipated." No hard and fast rule can operate in the draft, he said, and "no ironclad rule can be laid down for a nation the size of ours."

WIDE DISCRETION

Far-reaching discretion was placed, therefore, in the hands of local boards, which will determine deferments upon the individual merits of each case, guided by the general rules promulgated today. Draft headquarters is striving to make selection a local community problem, and to decentralize it to the point where Washington officials will act only in advisory and supervisory capacities, it was explained.

The preamble to the rules laid down this general admonition to local draft boards:

"The entire administration of the Selective Service Law shall be impartial and free from any political influences. There shall be no discrimination for or against any person because of his race, creed, or color, or because of his membership or activity in any labor, political, religious or other organization."

Regarding dependency, reflected in inquiries as the the subject of most widespread interest and concern, the rules stated:

"The local board should determine all such questions with sympathetic regard for the registrant and his dependents. Any reasonable doubts in connection with dependency should be resolved in favor of deferment, and in doubtful cases the board should be mindful of injuries which may be expected to result from separating a father from his children or a husband from his wife.

FAMILY GUARDED

"Maintenance of the family as a unit is of importance to the national well-being."

On occupational deferments also, local boards were permitted broad discretion in their decisions. The rules stated:

"The board is to defer a registrant considered to be a 'necessary man' where he cannot be replaced satisfactorily and where his removal would cause a material loss in effectiveness provided that the maintenance of the registrant's particular occupation is necessary to national health, safety, or interest in the sense that it is useful or productive and contributes to the employment or well-being of the community or the nation."

A variety of specific questions, concerning status of movie actors, industrial chiefs, professional football players and others, were declared by Col. William Draper, Jr., draft committee member, to be inadmissable of blanket decisions, but must be answered on the basis of individual factors, as judged by the local boards.

1800-Ton Duce Ship Is Sunk

ROME, Oct. 8 (AP)—The high command announced today the loss of an 1800-ton Italian merchantman by torpedoing in the western Mediterranean, but reported also the sinking of an armed British patrol ship by an Italian submarine.

An Italian victory was claimed in an East African border patrol engagement with British forces at El Katolo, Kenya. The British patrol was reported "put to flight with considerable losses."

Italian planes were said to have bombed for a second time a convoy of ships in the Red sea. A British colonial radio station and armed forces in East Africa also were reported bombed.

4000 SCHOOL TEACHERS TO HELP SPEED HUB DRAFT REGISTRATION

With school teachers, police and other citizens pressed into patriotic service, the Boston stage was set today for what may easily become a draft registration of record-breaking speed.

Following a Boston school committee meeting, it was decided to declare Oct. 16, the start of registration, as a school holiday, during which 4000 schoolmarms will turn registrars.

SEES SPEEDY JOB

Col. Ralph M. Smith, assistant selective service director of the Bay State, predicted that with the teachers being made available the registration of 125,000 Bostonians between 21 and 35 would be achieved without a slip up and without delay. Many other citizens are volunteering their services, he said.

While scores of other cities and communities in the state made similar plans for registration, Police Supt. Edward W. Fallon announced Boston police will deliver the registration blanks to the designated schoolhouses on registration day.

STAGGER SYSTEM

Although registration places will be open between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., school officials said the stagger system would be used so that teachers would remain on duty no longer than ordinary.

Meanwhile, Maj.-Gen. James A. Woodruff, First Corps Area commander, announced that the 211th Coast Artillery Anti-Aircraft regiment—Boston's First Corps Cadets—will leave Monday, Oct. 21, for Camp Hulen, Texas.

From the Governor's office came the announcement that Adj.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson was flying to Washington today to obtain Presidential approval of a list of persons selected on the 171 selective service boards in the state.

Now! YOU ASK THE QUESTIONS

For the new $15,000.00 Contest

The "Quizzical Cameraman" has trekked around town with one pocket full of questions and the other full of cash! He has put you on the spot and spotted you ten bucks. Winning $10.00 has been great sport for many . . . Now we're going to have a contest — the $15,000.00 Game of Check—where you can win not $10.00—but $10,000.00! And what's more, YOU can ask the questions!

The QUIZZICAL CAMERA MAN

Every day the Quizzical Camera Man trots around Boston armed with five different questions. He asks each question of as many people as necessary until he gets the right answer. To each person answering a question correctly he hands out a crisp new ten-dollar bill. Maybe he'll be in your neighborhood tomorrow. He gives away

$50.00 EVERY DAY

Question No. 1—With what do you connect the Wright Brothers?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Laying of the transatlantic cable
(b) Discovery of gold in California
(c) Invention of airplanes
(d) Teapot Dome scandal

The first question of the day was popped on Atlantic Ave. Robert Burgess of Bragdon St., Jamaica Plain, a shipping clerk, was the first person approached on the question and he came through with flying colors when he checked answer "C." His reward was a crisp new ten dollar bill.

Robert Burgess

Question No. 2—Who is known as the modern "Waltz King"?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Tommy Dorsey (c) Guy Lombardo
(b) Wayne King (d) Gene Krupa

Your quizzical cameraman moved to South St. to ask this one. The second brand new ten dollar bill went just as fast as the first when Helen Cohen of Cross St., Malden, an office worker, placed a check mark against the name of Wayne King.

Helen Cohen

Question No. 3—What goes to the dead letter office?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Worn-out currency (c) Discarded treaties
(b) Fraudulent mail (d) Unclaimed mail

This question like the previous two questions was answered by the first person approached. Her name was Albina Tempest of Autumn St., Boston. For checking answer "D" which was the only right answer, Miss Tempest was given a crisp new ten spot. The question was asked on Franklin Street.

Albina Tempest

Question No. 4—What are you doing when you "Cool your heels"?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Resting after a dance
(b) Taking a foot-bath
(c) Being kept waiting
(d) Drinking a cocktail

This question had to be asked of three persons before the correct answer was given. The first two persons checked answer "A" which was incorrect. However Sidney H. Allen of East Park Ave., Lynn, then came along and checked the correct answer which was "C." Mr. Allen also received the usual ten dollar bill. The question was asked on Arch St.

Sidney H. Allen

Question No. 5—What Hollywood star made a sarong famous?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Hedy Lamarr (c) Mae West
(b) Dorothy Lamour (d) Tom Mix

The final question of the day was asked on Federal St. Virginia Burke of Sterling St., Somerville, was the first person given the question and she was also the final ten dollar winner of the day when she checked answer "B."

Virginia Burke

LONDON IN THROES OF WORST RAID; MANY DEAD

given the injured beside piles of debris.

After the first attacks the Royal Air Force could be seen in action, and soon at least 50 German planes appeared to be engaged, scattered all over the sky.

SHELL CHANNEL PORTS

Many could not be seen except by the thin trails of white exhaust smoke which traced the sky.

While the Luftwaffe swept in for the daylight blows, England's long range southeast coast guns shelled the French coast near Boulogne where mysterious smoke-screened Nazi movements were detected overnight.

German guns quickly took up the cross-channel firing, and explosions shook both sides of the Strait of Dover. German shells smashed into Dover at intervals of three minutes. Columns of smoke and debris spouted into the air on the French side, marking British hits.

A convoy pasing down the English channel was also shelled from the French coast for half an hour. From Dover it appeared none of the ships was hit.

The sudden bustle of activity across the glassy-smooth channel appeared as something new to observers along England's heavily-manned southeast coast.

First a German plane laid a smoke screen along the continental shore. Despite the smoke, trawlers and drifters—light boats often mentioned as ferries for invasion troops—were seen early today putting out from near Boulogne, moving cautiously southwest close to shore.

The night long bombing of England caused the longest single raid alarm of the war for London, where explosions were heard and anti-aircraft guns barked from early dusk to dawn, when the attack dwindled momentarily.

Ten sections of London, including the central city, were bombed with heavy explosives and incendiaries. The outskirts again had a heavy heavy share of the explosives.

The communique said "an industrial plant in one town in southeast England was damaged." In another town fire bombs showered down on residential districts. Casualties were said to be few.

Raiders penetrated intense anti-aircraft garrages to attack towns in the northeast. Bombs fell in the midlands and along the west coast. Wales also was attacked.

The wreckage of a large west end store was added to the rubble heap of others along the street which were smashed a fortnight ago. Another big bomb damaged a famous west end structure now used as an office building. An oil bomb which Londoners call a "Goering cocktail" struck near a bank but the flames were extinguished. Fires were started in a big block of apartments.

Only a few hours elapsed between the dawn let-up and the first of the daylight attacks on London.

British Bombs Kill 25 In Longest Berlin Raid

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP)—The high command admitted today British bombers had inflicted casualties and military damage on Berlin in a fierce exchange of air blows.

Besides subjecting this capital to the worst raid it has yet suffered, British fliers struck also at Hamburg, Germany's chef port, and Amsterdam, chief city of the Nazi-occupied Netherlands.

At least 25 persons were killed and approximately 60 injured, German sources declared, and the toll may be considerably higher. More than half the dead, they said, were women and children.

It was reported two British planes were downed by anti-aircraft fire as they approached Berlin.

"Defense measures forced the majority of the planes to turn off," it was said, "while part reached the Reich's capital. Bombs again hit several hospitals, apartment houses and storehouses, as well as railway tracks, causing property damage in some places."

Officials said five hospitals were hit.

cause it was not known how long they might be available.

Especial emphasis was to have been placed on the desirability of early departure of all women and children and men in non-essential posts.

11,000 AMERICANS THERE

There are approximately 9000 white Americans in the affected zones, plus some 2000 Chinese-Americans and Japanese-Americans.

It was believed possible some extra ships might be diverted to facilitate the removal, as all ships now available have been booked for some time in advance.

The instructions were not released publicly in the Orient. They were expected to be passed along quietly to American communities so as to avoid any unnecessary alarm.

United States Consul-General Clarence E. Gauss declined to comment on the instructions.

RADIO LINK SEVERED

Wireless communication between Shanghai and the American radio service at Tientsin, a privately-owned American company, meanwhile was interrupted suddenly.

The Tientsin station reported merely that it "had to cease transmission."

Recently the Tientsin station was in difficulty with Japanese authorities. Part of its equipment and records were seized in a raid by Japanese gendarmes last week.

Japs Land Troops On Britain's Island

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Japanese navy was reported today to have landed forces on Liu Kung Island off Shantung Peninsula, of which the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek recently granted Britain renewal of a 10-year lease.

The landing apparently was designed to enforce the stand of the Japanese-dominated Chinese regime at Nanking, which regards the lease as no longer operative.

A Japanese cruiser, two destroyers and several auxiliary vessels were reported several days ago off the island, which the British navy's China squadron has been using as a summer station.

Fourth prize brings $500; fifth, $350; sixth, $250; seventh, $150; eighth, $100; ninth and tenth, $100 each, and there are 990 additional awards of $5 each.

Remember that there are no complicated rules. to guess at or write, nothing to do but use your wits in checking the correct answers to a daily series of questions contained in the CHECK SHEET for the d. y.

CHECK is like the famous quiz programs that have taken the radio world by storm. And all you have to do is to CHECK the right answer to the right question.

CONTEST STARTS OCT. 14

Only employes of the Record and American and those who have won $500 or more in previous contests are barred from competing.

This great new contest will run in both the Record and American beginning Monday, Oct. 14. A new check sheet will be printed each and every day.

In addition, the Record and American will pay its readers $25 for each question they submit that is used in the CHECK contest.

IT'S YOUR CONTEST

YOU are going to write the contest for us and a total of $1250 will be paid for up to date puzzy and interesting questions.

When the contest starts you will see what sort of questions are being used. Send your suggestion in addressed to "Cash for Questions Editor," P. O. Box 2057 Boston Record-American, Boston. You may win $25.

Remember, CHECK is not a guessing game. There will be four answers printed to each question each day. Only ONE of them is correct. All you have to do is CHECK the right question.

Be sure you get next Monday's Record or American with the first question of the contest, and full rules to follow.

CONVICT STORY TO RICE JURY

Boudreau, but was not offered in evidence.

Rice, taking the stand in his own defense, stood erect, declining an offer to sit during testimony. More poised than he has appeared at any time since his arrest, he spoke in a clear, carefully modulated voice, his diction professional.

He testified he was born in Colorado 54 years ago, the son of a Presbyterian minister and lumber dealer. At the age of 11, he said he was thrown from a horse and seriously injured. His early testimony consisted chiefly of history.

Miss Marjorie Massow, 19, of Iowa City, Ia., a student living at Sumner dormitory, where the murder of Mrs. Smith took place, recalled incidents of the night of the slaying.

CONDUCT EXEMPLARY

With a roommate, Miss Ruella Bellnson of Newark, N. J., she returned to her room at 11:30 on Saturday night, June 29, Miss Massow said, writing two letters and washing out some clothing.

At 2:15 a. m., Miss Massow testified, she went down to the dining room for a glass of ice water.

"I noticed the dining room door was open, and other doors generally closed, including the screen door which had been closed when we came in," Miss Massow said. "But I heard no sound of any kind.

"I had been a pupil of Mr. Rice and he was always a gentleman; I considered his conduct exemplary."

Miss Massow identified a letter on blue stationery, which was not read, as one she had received from the former convict Thomas, then employed as a theater electrician.

Miss Florence W. Raidy, employed in a local drug store, testified that on Sunday morning June 30, at 10 a. m. Rice came into the drug store and that she remarked to him:

"I understand there's been an accident at your place."

"I haven't heard about it," the witness quoted Rice as saying, "and I ought to have because I live there."

BROTHER TESTIFIES

Testifying she had known Rice and his family since 1929, Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Hoff of New York city, a Christian Scientist, declared

"I always found him absolutely a gentleman."

An elder brother, the Rev. Bernard Rice of Bay State rd., Boston a Presbyterian minister, was the next witness. He recalled early boyhood days with his brother in Colorado and said his brother was once seriously injured when thrown from a horse and underwent an operation.

"He was a timid, nervous boy," the brother testified. "The death of our parents was a great shock to him. Since then he has been under the guidance of our sister.

"But he was self-sufficient enough to engage in theater business in New York and stand on his own feet."

Miss Robinson testified she had gone to bed at midnight on the night of the murder, and had heard no sound except that of her roommate moving about the room. She said she had been a pupil of Rice and that her conduct was found him gentlemanly.

Communist Ticket Banned in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—The Indiana election board barred the Communist party ticket today from places for the Nov. 5 election.

The party had a petition Saturday with 11,466 signatures for printing its state and national slates on the ballots.

Vichy Strips Algerian Jews of Citizenship

VICHY, France, Oct. 8 (AP)—All native Algerian Jews were stripped of the rights of French citizenship under a decree promulgated today. The Jews were given the same status as native Moslems.

The decree suppressed a law enacted in 1870 which gave the native Jew citizenship rights. Exception under the law were made for certain combatants in the wars of 1914 and 1939 who received decorations for bravery.

Hundreds Flee Roxbury Fire

One man was burned and several hundred employes, mostly teen age girl clerks, fled a fire in the old T. G. Plant Co. building at Centre and Bickford sts., Roxbury, today. Damage is estimated at $12,000.

A score of firms, engaged in manufacturing a variety of products including roofing supplies, yarns and shirts, now occupy the premises.

The blaze started, fire officials said, on the roof of a one story ell of the six story brick building, when a tar pot being heated for roof repairs burst into flames.

James C Gilbert, 55, of Norfolk ave., Roxbury, suffered second and third degree burns about the arms and body as the boiling tar poured over his body.

Honeymoon House

By Roberta Yates

WHEN a light flicked on in the kitchen of the honeymoon house, Mary Adair sat up straight on her front porch. The house had been closed, locked, empty, under a pall since yesterday. The light must mean a burglar, and a careless one who relied on the grove of evergreens to conceal him.

Mary didn't dare alarm nervous Aunt Hat by calling the police, but she couldn't bear the thought of a burglar pawing over the beautiful furnishings of the honeymoon house. For six months she had watched it being built, her ideal dream house; she'd envied the lucky couple who were to live in it. She'd taken so much interest in them and in the house that yesterday's upset had really upset her, too. A burglar would be the last straw in the tragedy.

She found an iron poker and went bravely across the lawn and tiptoed to the kitchen window. There she stopped short and stared.

In the green and chromium bridal kitchen sat a very dour looking young man, eating without apparent enjoyment, a plate of salmon and cold beans. He was Allan Morris, owner of the honeymoon house. Mary didn't know him and yet she knew him very well. She'd seen him at the house often, talking to the workmen, helping, laughing a lot. A very happy young man he had seemed. Now he looked grim.

Mary recalled the note in last night's paper. "Wedding postponed indefinitely . . . The bride, Miss Evelyn Claremont, left suddenly for California . . ." In plain English, Evelyn had left Allan Morris waiting at the church.

Mary, staring at him in sympathy, forgot that she was visible from within. He turned, saw her, and opened the window.

"What's so interesting?" he demanded unpleasantly.

"Nothing," she stammered.

"Can't a man eat in his own house without neighbors goggling?"

"Burglars—I thought——"

He ignored her babble.

"I built this dump and I'm going to live in it until I can sell it. Alone!" he ended in an angry burst, and slammed the window.

Mary slunk home. But she'd dropped the poker under the window. Next day, when she saw him drive away to work, she went to get it. The window was open on a sight to horrify any woman. The shining sink held empty cans and dirty dishes; coffee had spilled on the porcelain stove. Mary climbed through the window. She left the kitchen glossy; she also left a note written in righteous feminine indignation. Maybe he did have a broken heart but that didn't excuse ruining a lovely house.

The Cast of Characters in "Honeymoon House"

ALLAN MORRIS, who remains in his honeymoon house, although his bride has left him.

MARY ADAIR, a neighbor who feels sorry for Allan and regrets that the deserted bridegroom is living on canned stuff.

WITHOUT GRATITUDE

"Live in your house, but stop making a mess of it," she scrawled. "Please hire a maid."

Next day she found an answer.

"I like a mess. Please attend to your own business."

Let the stubborn, bad tempered brute wallow. Evelyn Claremont had shown good judgment to walk out on him. Mary decided to ignore him, but in the evenings when she sat on the porch and saw the light in the kitchen, she thought how awful cold canned food tasted. And, in the mornings, when she passed the honeymoon house, on her way to play tennis, she .heir.. of that lustrous sink polluted with dirty dishes.

Finally she looked through the kitchen window. The sink was even worse than she expected. She climbed in. This time the rest of the house needed dusting also. She finished in mid-afternoon, too late for a bridge party, but she didn't mind. She was having a wonderful time pretending that this was her own honeymoon house and that she was shining it up for a make-believe husband.

If the inquiring photographer had asked Mary her occupation she would have replied: "Home girl." And that was the truth, though, thanks to smart clothes and Aunt Dot's money, she did little home making and she looked like a glamour girl. But she had loved keeping house until her father died. Now the three servants at Aunt Hat's resented her help, and drove her to a butterfly existence. The honeymoon house filled a void.

When the house was clean she thought of the awful cold remnants she had tossed out with the cans. Not even a man as bad natured as Allan Morris should eat that stuff. She made a hurried trip to the grocer's. At 5 she left a note on the kitchen table, saying: "Try the oven before you open a can." Next morning there was an answer. "Where did you learn to cook? Are you an old Southern mammy or a genius?"

Maybe he didn't have a bad disposition. Maybe being jilted just made him seem mean. That afternoon she fried chicken and baked hot biscuits—and she forgot the time. The garage of the honeymoon house was tucked away off a side drive. She didn't hear Allan Morris until he said.

Mary's voice trembled slightly as she said, "No, I'm not the maid."

"Hello, good angel." He added sheepishly: "I'm afraid I was rude that night we first met. I was—well, out of sorts. But you picked a grand way to forgive me."

After that, naturally, she stayed and helped him eat the fried chicken. Later over coffee and cigarettes on the terrace, he asked.

"Why'd you do it? Feel sorry for me?"

His voice was light, but his lips were tight set.

"Any girl would adore cleaning up this house," she said. "It's what every girl wants."

"No girl didn't want it," he said grimly.

In the following months, that was the only mention he made of Evelyn Claremont, but Mary knew he thought of her often. Some times his mouth would go tight, his eyes bleak. He was thinking of Evelyn then, and missing her. The good times they had—Mary and he—in the honeymoon house, couldn't erase the fact that it was empty of Evelyn.

They dined together two or three times a week. It was fun to concoct new dishes, exactly as an anxious bride might do. Mary chose a reliable maid for him, but it was fun to check up to see that each crystal glass shone, every corner was dusted.

MARRIAGE SHY

It was Aunt Hat who brought her up sharply to a realization of how much the house and come to mean to her.

"Why don't you marry the man?" Aunt Hat asked. "Goodness knows you're housekeeping for him."

"I guess he's shy of marriage after what happened the last time he tried it," Mary said.

"Nonsense. Catch him on the rebound. Easiest way to get any man," said Aunt Hat with brisk practicality.

"I won't be second choice for anyone," Mary flared.

The next evening when Allan walked home with her, he said: "You've turned this Summer from a tough ordeal into a grand time. I'll always be grateful to you, Mary. I can't find words to tell you how I feel."

Her heart did a skip jump. She thought she knew what he wanted to say. But when she glanced at the newspaper, her heart went back into place with a thump. Evelyn Claremont had returned from California. Anyone could read between those lines. Evelyn hadn't married the tennis star they'd licked her with. She'd come running back to Allan. And he knew it. He'd been trying to say a polite good-by to Mary. Mary understood.

But she must pay a last visit to the honeymoon house, for she had put the maid at fall cleaning. She must see that the floors were re-waxed, and those fragile drapes re-hung properly. She wandered disconsolately about the immaculate and beautiful rooms. She wasn't cooking dinner tonight. She was going home before Allan returned. Farewell to the dream house. Soon it would have its rightful mistress back, the girl who'd run away and returned to snatch Allan one more.

The doorbell rang. Evelyn Claremont had the veneered, patronizing look of one who has been gone over by manicurists, hair dressers and exclusive dressmakers. She lifted eyebrows at Mary's slacks, crumpled from kneeling on waxed floors; at Mary's hair, in dishevelled ringlets from tossing her head back to hang curtains. She went with cool assurance, into the living room.

"I'll wait here for Mr. Morris," she said. "I suppose you're the maid."

Her high heels scraped two long scratches on the polished floor. She flicked at a cigarette lighter that wouldn't work, tapped it impatiently on the mahogany coffee table, leaving a nick. In final desecration, when she got the cigarette going, she flipped ashes in the middle of a Persian rug.

Mary's voice trembled slightly as she said: "No, I'm not the maid."

"Sorry," said Evelyn. But it wasn't an apology; it was a challenge. "I've been away. I haven't kept up with Allan's recent pick-ups."

"ALLAN'S FIANCEE"

Mary was mad clear through. Maybe she was also jealous, but she'd never have gotten so mad save for those careless ashes and the nicked table.

"I'm Allan's fiancee," she said amazed at the steady convincing tone in which she uttered the lie.

There was silence. Then Evelyn, ignoring an ash tray, crushed out her cigarette on the mahogany table.

"How amusing," she said. "He found quick comfort."

"Pick up your feet as you go out. You scratch the floor," snapped Mary.

The front door slammed. She bent over the table, trying to rub out the cigarette burn. She'd been a fool to tell that lie. Evelyn would soon find out it wasn't true. Anyway she didn't want Allan second hand. When he came in she'd tell him that Evelyn was back—end willing.

"What's the big idea?" he asked from the kitchen doorway.

She'd forgotten that side entrance to the garage. He looked stormy, angry; he'd heard everything.

"Why'd you tell Evelyn that?" he demanded roughly.

"Because all she cares about is how she looks," cried Mary. "She doesn't give a darn about the house. She barged around scratching floors and spilling ashes. She doesn't deserve this house." Mary stopped in mid-tirade as a thought struck her. "If you heard what I said, why don't you run after her?"

He grinned. "I thought all summer that you were taking pity on me. But just now, when you stood up to her, told her off— Well, love my house, love me. How about it Mary?"

"I love your house," said Mary, "and that's a good beginning."

THE END.

SWEEPING UP THE PHONY ISSUES

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

A thoroughgoing housecleaning is needed now and again in a political campaign just to clear up a few odd bits and shavings which pass, in the gathering dust and excitement, for genuine issues.

One of these concerns foreign affairs. The other concerns Mr. Willkie's "crusade" to clean up city bosses and local corruption. Now for the first.

In a recent speech Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York stated the obvious truth that the dictator powers would be delighted at the defeat of President Roosevelt. They know him as the greatest living spokesman for democracy and a leader strong enough and vigorous enough to stand up for the rights of his country regardless of threats, intimidation or coercion. The Governor made no reflection on the character or patriotism of the Republican nominee.

Mr. Willkie took issue and said he was insulted. The New York Times rushed to his defense and belabored Governor Lehman. Then the Times correspondent in Rome cabled the following about one purpose of the meeting between Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini:

"Moreover, the Axis is out to defeat President Roosevelt, not as a measure of interference in the internal policies of the United States but because of the President's foreign policy and because of everything for which he stands in the eyes of the Italians and Germans. Therefore the normal strategy for the Axis is to do something before Nov. 5 that would somehow have a great effect on the electoral campaign."

The reporter on the ground knows the truth. The dictators would like nothing better than to get rid of Roosevelt, with the help of American voters, on Nov. 5. That's all Gov. Lehman said.

BLESSINGS OF G. O. P. RULE

Now for the "corruption" issue and Candidate Willkie's crusade to purify politics. After a lifetime serving the power interests, he realizes the need of a little cleansing fluid, judiciously applied.

Did you ever visit the Philadelphia catacombs? Neither did Wendell. The "catacombs" is an appropriate tag fastened by the unhappy taxpayers of Philadelphia on four subways built by Republican politicians which have never given a nickel's worth of service to the public.

There they are, complete, unused, the entrances boarded over to prevent the unlucky taxpayers from falling down the holes. They cost $20,000,000. Willkie started his crusade from Philadelphia, but he never mentioned a word about the catacombs. He may have sipped some of the chlorine-saturated water which the G. O. P. burghers serve the inhabitants or he may have seen the streets flooded because of lack of adequate drainage and water mains.

The Philadelphia Record, which speaks out bravely against corruption in EITHER party, recently made a survey of the registration rolls. The results showed why the G. O. P. bosses had no time to bother about giving the city a decent administration. They had been too busy padding the election rolls.

Before the books were closed to the Record, on orders by the machine bosses, the paper disclosed that the registration figures were padded by a figure estimated at 211,000 voters. A sizable block of phony voters like that could easily swing the outcome in the whole State of Pennsylvania.

WHERE TOMBSTONES VOTE

In Philadelphia, apparently, the tombstones of today are the voters of tomorrow. Harry Mackey, former Republican Mayor, was on the lists although he died two years ago. One hotel had 56 registered voters. After word got around that a probe was under way, 47 of these names were stricken from the books.

The Record estimated that 20 per cent of the entire number of voters registered in Philadelphia came under the heading of ghosts, phantoms, or repeaters.

Having made peace recently with Boss Joe Pew of Pennsylvania, Willkie could hardly be too severe on corruption in Pennsylvania, the Keystone State.

A few years ago, Chicago also had the blessings of local Republican rule. It was the late Mayor Big Bill Thompson, an outstanding G. O. P. reformer, who won re-election by promising to bust King George on the snoot if he showed up in the Windy City.

BRUCE BARTON SAYS:

"WAR IS NOT INEVITABLE"

(Provided by Republican National Committee)

(As guest columnist today, we give you Congressman Bruce Barton, noted journalist and statesman, and the Republican candidate for the United States Senate. In a poll by Life Magazine, published March 20, 1939, fifty-three Washington correspondents selected him as one of the 10 ablest members of Congress. All of the others selected by the correspondents had served from 15 to 27 years. Mr. Barton was in his second term.)

A defeatist attitude is gripping the nation. Everywhere you go you find people shrugging their shoulders and saying: "I hate to think of war, but it is INEVITABLE."

Or they say: "Well, there is nothing we can do about it. We are DRIFTING into war."

Bruce Barton says: This talk is utter tragic nonsense. This country does not have to drift into anything.

This country is big enough and strong enough to make up its own mind what is best for it to do and then do it.

This country doesn't have to drift into a war either in Europe or the Orient.

It doesn't have to drift into a bankrupt treasury.

It doesn't have to drift into a Third Term Presidency.

It doesn't have to drift into Dictatorship.

No state of national affairs is inevitable that Americans want to prevent.

If we talk long enough about war being "inevitable" we will wake up one of these days and find that we are in war.

BRUCE BARTON

If a husband and wife were to spend all their time talking about divorce they would wake up some morning and find one or the other had hopped on the train for Reno.

A people who are mature, and intelligent and fit for self-government ought to make up their minds what is the best thing for their country and then do that thing. They should not sit supinely by and let themselves drift into war, or be led into war, or be pushed into war through any back door.

MY FOREIGN POLICY IS VERY SIMPLE. ALWAYS AND UNDER ALL CIRCUMSTANCES I WOULD DO WHATEVER IS BEST FOR THE UNITED STATES.

Obviously it is best for the United States that the Atlantic Ocean is on one side of us and the Pacific on the other. If some country was trying to drain all the water out of the Atlantic Ocean I would vote any amount of billions to defeat that effort.

Equally obviously it is best for the United States to have the British fleet keep afloat and in the hands of the British. The British do not love us. No nation really loves any other nation. But the interests of the British and the United States in respect to this hemisphere are the same. So I favor building planes and other war machinery and selling it to the British.

He's Against Secret Diplomacy

But I do not favor secret diplomacy. I do not favor secret agreements which the President does not tell the Congress and the people about.

I do not favor policing the world, or agreeing to protect the Oriental possessions of the French and the Dutch which they were too lazy to protect themselves.

I do not and will not favor sending a single American boy across either ocean.

I favor a positive effort to keep out of war, not a weak drifting toward war.

I believe Wendell Willkie will give the people all the facts. I believe he will make a positive effort to keep this country out of war.

I know he agrees with me that it is rank defeatism to talk about war being INEVITABLE.

We are a big, grown-up nation. We don't have to DRIFT into anything.

I want particularly to call your attention to this statement by Mr Willkie at Pittsburgh:

"And also, when Senator McNary and myself are elected, we will immediately clear out from the Federal Government all Communists and fellow-travelers.

"Mr. Earl Browder will have no occasion, nor any wish, to recommend me for a third term."

This is paramount. If we are to return the unemployed to jobs we must have men in Washington who believe in the American form of government. The New Deal has spent more than all other Administrations combined, from the time of Washington on down, with the single exception of the World War government. It has spent sixty billion dollars. Yet we still have 9,600,000 unemployed.

Socialites Model Styles

By ANNICE BRINK

For the first time, "Authorized Reproductions by Madame Schiaparelli" were paraded in Boston, at the Florence Crittenton League's benefit show. Jordan Marsh Company is sponsoring the small group of fashions, the first created by Madame Schiaparelli since she left France, not as a refugee, but on a long-planned trip to represent Paris designers.

Through her collection, Madame remains the staunch individualist. Her initial, her "S," decorates the brass buttons of a vicuna sports coat. She made a "refugee" suit which would be suitable for a trip from Paris to Lisbon, and is just as good for a trip from Boston to New York.

The "refugee" suit is a three-piece affair, and actually you wear a complete wardrobe in one suit, which would fit any refugee's requirements, one would think. A very simple, brown sheer wool, straight frock is the basis; this could turn into an afternoon frock just get the jewels to go with it out of the pocketbook, or, in your case, the overnight bag.

Then an apron-like skirt with pockets tied over the frock to look more suit-skirtish. Over all a brown plaid tweed sports jacket. A marvelous thing in which to flee for a festive week-end.

Never did we see more beautiful shoulders than the Schiaparelli collection showed, extended smoothly and clean-cut, though not sharp. Fur collars were wide, flat circular cape-like affairs in some cases, with an oblong slash taken out at the center back.

CONGRESS is under great pressure from those who counsel adjournment.

It is under pressure first of all and most of all from the New Deal Administration, which desires a free hand in the conduct of critical national affairs.

It is also under the powerful pressure of supposed political self-interest, for a third of the Senate and the entire House of Representatives are to be elected in November, and the members have a natural desire to mend their political fences.

BUT THIS IS A TIME OF GRAVE EMERGENCY FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

And unless the people of the United States are represented in Washington by the Congress they are not represented there at all—and the vital interests of the American people should transcend the interests and ambitions of politicians.

CONGRESS HAS NO MORAL OR PATRIOTIC RIGHT TO ADJOURN IN THIS EMERGENCY, OR IN ANY NATIONAL CRISIS.

As long as it has work to do it should always attend to its duties until they are accomplished, and should not be content with half measures and should not relinquish its functions or delegate its powers to the Executive branch of the government—particularly when the Executive branch is so covetous of unrestrained authority and so alert to opportunities for seizing it.

Perhaps it would work some inconvenience upon the members of Congress to remain at their important duties during the remaining weeks of the campaign.

But why should the American Congress be the FIRST to shirk duty—even if inconvenient—in a national emergency?

Extremely necessary legislation has not been passed.

Moreover, a serious international situation prevails and grows hourly more grave, and there is continuing and increasing danger that the United States may be involved in war.

Is it not the obligation of Congress, which has the sole power to declare war and the sacred duty to preserve peace as long as that is honorably and safely possible, to remain in session at such a time—NOT MERELY DURING AN ELECTION CAMPAIGN, BUT FOR THE DURATION OF THE EMERGENCY?

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE are not insensible to what attention and devotion to duty require of Congress.

But are not the American people themselves and as a whole being called upon increasingly for hardship and sacrifice in the national interest?

Hundreds of thousands, and soon millions, of them are responding for military service.

All of them, rich and poor, in government service and in private enterprise, professions and trades, are contributing time and energy, brains and skill, money and individual talents, to the welfare and safety of their country.

Should not Congress forego the election hustings with at least the same degree of devotion and certainly the same patriotic spirit that the people themselves are requird to do and ARE DOING?

CERTAINLY IT WOULD BE GOOD AMERICANISM FOR CONGRESS TO REMAIN IN SESSION.

Probably it is good politics as well, for if Congress stays at its vital tasks in the interests of the people and functions wisely for the people and provides adequately for the safety of the people and perhaps even contrives to preserve peace for the people, will not that be good politics as well as good Americanism, and will that not invite and deserve the grateful acknowledgment of the American people?

Let the American Congress stay in session, and attend to its AMERICAN BUSINESS.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, proclaimed by Governor Saltonstall for observance throughout Massachusetts, concerns all residents, property owners particularly.

Seventy-four persons—37 men, 26 women and 11 children—died as the result of fires last year in this State.

Damage totalled $11,592,001, a sum that exceeded the loss of the previous year by more than $200,000.

Nearly a third of the destructon took place in Boston, where buildings and property worth $3,109,149 were destroyed.

Altogether, there were 9645 fires—an increase of 1274 over the 1938 figure.

We cannot bring back the dead.

We cannot erase the suffering and grief that accompanied the too-frequent devastation.

But we can and should make CAUTION a constant and unceasing practice.

That is the real purpose of Fire Prevention Week.

SIMON LAKE, on a broadcast the other night, broke down and sobbed. In explanation, he said: "I invented the submarine in 1897. Now that I see it being used to murder women and children I wish I hadn't invented it. The thought makes me cry." Mr. Lake can dry his tears and shed his responsibility. He didn't originate the submarine. A Confederate navy submarine sank a Union vessel in the Charleston, S. C., harbor in the Civil War.

BARTENDERS in midtown Manhattan bars are very modern. They assume names such as Andre, Mique, Charlot, Jean, Pierre, etc., and put grease on their hair in an effort to look like George Raft. Qualifications for New York cocktail bar dispensers are in order named. 1. Must be tall, dark and handsome. 2. Must be sympathetic; especially with feminine patrons whose husbands do not understand them. 3. Must not waste too much time mixing drinks. Speed is the first essential. 4. Must know a little about bartending.

THE Machine Age idea can be carried much too far. Take machine-made pretzels. Yes, sir, you take them; give me the old-fashioned hand-made pretzels which really had a tang to them. Pretzel enthusiasts are crying for them. I may answer this demand by going into the pretzel business with the slogan: "Ed Durling's Honest Pretzels, Hand Made in Milwaukee by Union Pretzel Benders" . . . Continually we hear of talented women whose husbands object to their having a career. A man must be very conceited who thinks his presence alone is sufficient to make a woman happy. Let the girls have their careers, says I.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, Oct. 8—We had a birthday party Sunday night at the big house, even though it was not my birthday! On the 11th, the President will be on a train in Pittsburgh, and I shall be starting to fly to the West Coast, so we decided that this would be an easier place to have a party and celebrate with a few friends.

My brother, who is grand at arranging parties, obtained the most wonderful music from New York City. It was played on an instrument I had never heard before, which is like an electric piano but has stops to make it sound like a whole orchestra.

We were all thrilled and everyone asked for the things they liked best. The very versatile musician seemed able to play everything asked for, from Mozart to Chopin to Wagner to Debussy and Ravel.

MY BROTHER had made a comic phonograph record which gently teased me in song and rhyme. It started the party off in great style. I think it is a good idea to celebrate at parties which are actually not on your birthday. Then you do not have to think gloomily that another year has gone by in which, on looking back candidly, you count so little accomplishment for time sped away.

Sunday afternoon, a group of people, some Quakers, both middleaged and young men, spent a couple of hours with me explaining the point of view of the various conscientious objectors.

They were anxious to make me realize that theirs was a genuine conviction, that they could not take human lives and some of them even felt they could not engage in any activity sponsored by a government which they felt was tending toward war.

None of these men, young or old, had to convince me of their sincerity. I can well understand that to live up to these convictions will perhaps take more courage than to risk their lives in the army. Yet, I can also see the point of view of other people whose boys are in the army or who are in the army themselves if a war should ever come, particularly of a defensive nature.

The test of democracy and civilization is to treat with fairness the individual's right to self-expression, even when you can neither understand nor approve it.

I hope we are going to show now, when we simply are asking young men to train for useful purposes in peace time or in any emergency, that we can respect individuals who differ from the majority and find useful work which they are willing and able to do under the restrictions imposed upon them by their conscience.

FARMER STILL TARRIES IN BIARRITZ

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—MICHAEL FARMER, the former husband of Gloria Swanson, still is in Biarritz. Shortly after the Nazi troops arrived there, Farmer decided to fraternize with some of the officers, pending his obtaining of the papers required for his departure. He sat in one of the Biarritz cafes, where a group of Nazi officers joined him in a drinking party . . . The next morning the Gestapo arrived at his room. They searched it thoroughly and examined all the clothing he wore—to make sure that he had taken no notes concerning the conversations he had had with his drinking companions of the previous night.

MISS STICKNEY

LAST WEEK the wayfarers on 44th street were treated to an unusual performance. In the lobby of the St. James Theater—where they had been rehearsing "Twelfth Night"—stood Helen Hayes, Maurice Evans, Margaret Webster, Theresa Helburn and Gilbert Miller. The doors to the street were locked. And it took this group—two noted producers, two famed Shakespearians and one Academy Award winner—15 minutes to convey, by pantomime, to the cab drivers outside the message that they had been locked in and needed help.

* * *

DURING the bombardment of Helsinki last winter the cast of "Life With Father" contributed an ambulance to the Finnish cause. That ambulance was christened "Vinnie," in honor of the role Dorothy Stickney portrays in that show. Because the Russo-Finn armistice was signed before that ambulance could leave this country the vehicle was sent instead to France . . . This week the young American who drove "Vinnie" in France came backstage to meet Miss Stickney. He told her how well "Vinnie" had acquitted herself—of his driving, with eight wounded inside, through a ghost city where 100,000 people once had lived without finding a single person there. He stole food to keep those wounded alive and then returned to this country . . . "We'll never forget what you've done," said Dorothy. "We'll always remember you for this" . . . "You'd remember me in any case," the young man replied. "Because my name's McCarthy. Charlie McCarthy."

EDDIE CANTOR was reminiscing about Will Rogers. He told of accompanying Rogers to the office of the Detroit Free Press, where a Christmas Toy Fund was being raised. Rogers placed $1000 on the desk of the fund collector, who asked: "What is your name, sir?" Rogers replied: "What difference? That wouldn't make the boys any better" . . . Cantor was with Rogers when they were called to entertain at the White House in 1918 before President Wilson, Lord Balfour and Secretary of War Baker. Balfour expressed anxiety over America's ability to train enough soldiers in time. "Don't worry," said Rogers. "When you train an army to go only one way—forward—that takes only half the usual time."

* * *

CANTOR COLLECTED every article written by Rogers, as well as the transcripts of every speech and broadcast Rogers ever made. It's the most thorough Rogers collection ever gathered by a private individual.

"I'll never part with this," he vowed to Mrs. Canter, "until I meet a man who loved Will Rogers more than I did". . . When Eddie played at a theater in Ft. Worth he met Amon Carter, the newspaper publisher. At Carter's home Eddie saw Will Rogers' photo, with a candle lit before it. The walls of Carter's study were lined with Rogers' pictures. They talked about Will until 5 a. m. Then Cantor wired Ida: "Put my Will Rogers collection in a crate and ship it to Amon Carter, Ft. Worth."

WITH THE FIRST BIG "FOOTBALL NIGHT" of the season immediately ahead—it Friday is immediacy—and with a pair of new shows added to the great "Life With Father" making Boston an important way-station theatrically, Bill "Bojangles" Robinson came to town at the right time last night.

THE MARVELLOUS WILLIAM played bob with an enchanted gang of first-nighters at the new Southland (an extremely pretty room, if you haven't seen it yet) . . . Bill top-danced and sang "Down Argentina Way"—his new picture's title—and told his pleasant little jokes and picked a couple of "numbers" for his fans to gamble on . . . (Bill, the bookmakers' friend, gave out '496 at the dinner show, and "748" for supper) . . . The dusky star tips his hat, bares his ivory teeth, smiles and becomes the "Uncle Bill" of everyone present.

THE TOWN SHOULD SWOOP DOWN on the Southland this week . . . The Robinson career since full recognition came to him a dozen years ago has been one of no failures . . . Generously indeed, the splendid colored vocalist, Ada Brown, whose singing has the same racial rhythm which Bill's dancing typifies—is on the same bill . . . Her warbling of "Man of My Heart" is beautiful . . . The whole show is grand.

The Balinese Room, where mufti was de trop in the past, goes "informal" this season . . . Pretty Kay Lawrence of Newton, looking ultra-swank after a bit in New York as Bob Ripley's press-agent, is ornamenting Boston newspaper city rooms in connection with her duties . . . PAUL, THE MAITRE D'HOTEL, OF THE Mayfair began a brief conversation the Ripley way this morning . . . So we are passing the strange event along to Miss Lawrence . . . For if the world were composed solely of waiters, the incident described by Paul would certainly rate a prominent place in Mr. Ripley's files . . . When the Legionnaires of blessed memory were in town three weeks ago, one of the boys from Nebraska found himself fresh out of money after paying his check.

IT WASN'T A VERY BIG CHECK. But the Nebraska Legionnaire and his party had been making the rounds and their available cash was barely enough to meet the tab and leave a balance for a taxi . . . So the gentleman from Nebraska took the waiter's number, and told him that a tip would be forwarded . . . The waiter, accordingly, crossed it off his mental reckoning—and that was that . . . Last night a letter arrived from the west addressed to Waiter No. 6, The Mayfair . . . A check for a generous tip was enclosed.

A HOLLYWOOD REJECT, TONY MARTIN, comes very close to being the highest priced act in the night-club world at this writing . . . As a mater-of-fact, Tony's asking price is so high that it is virtually prohibitive for New York—and positively prohibitive for Boston. He can earn twice as much money by playing personal appearances at theaters . . . The amount of "time" available in theaters is limited, however . . . And the "stands" Singer Martin would like to play, in repeat engagements, are hesitant about hiring any act within six months of a previous appearance.

THERE IS SOME LOGIC, therefore, to reports coming out of the west that Mr. Martin is willing to team "i

'CAPT. APPLEJACK' FOR BOB HOPE

By Loudla O. Parsons

Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8—If you were to canvass the fans as you would find that Bob Hope is one of the most popular actors on the screen today. He broke every known record on his personal appearance tour and he vies with Gable, Cagney, Flynn and the rest of the top roisterers in the amount of fan mail he receives. Bob has such charm, such reserve of all concerned and he is so agreeable to everyone. Well, to get down to brass tacks, on his trip with the Warner crowd to South Bend for the "Knute Rockne" premiere he was a sensation as a master of ceremonies. So much so Hal Wallis immediately started looking for a vehicle for him.

VIRGINIA FIELD

Yesterday I talked with Hal and he told me he wants Hope for "Captain Applejack," the play by Walter Hackett in which the hero goes to sleep and dreams he is a knight of old. How I remember Wallace Eddinger and Mary Nash in the stage version. Bob is allowed one outside picture and since he is interested in Warners' proposition, it is as good as arranged. Oh, yes, Lloyd Bacon of "Rockne" fame will direct him.

I WAS VERY GLAD to talk with William Dieterle yesterday and to have him tell me he has formed the William Dieterle Production Company and will release his product through RKO. He is incorporated at one million dollars and he is president and Robert McDonald is vice-president. At RKO yesterday they were very happy at the prospect of having the man who made such great pictures as "Emile Zola," "Louis Pasteur" and "Juarez" with them. Dieterle, who had many offers after he left Warners, refused to accept any of them until he had a set-up he liked and this seems to be it. He will make two pictures a year and I have an idea the first one won't be a biography.

BETTE DAVIS, who had a great whirl with Ham Nelson her ex, in New York, is due in Wednesday. Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers left yesterday for Del Mar where Mary will rest after her strenuous political speaking and work for the Chinese relief; had dinner with Paddy and Walter Lang Sunday night. Norris Goff and his attractive wife were there. He's part of the firm of Lum 'n Abner and he tells me he and his partner are going to do one-night stands on personals; Rosa Romeen and his orchestra go into Ciro's Thursday. That is the night Dorothy Lamour's preview of "Moon Over Burma" will be shown.

'Down Argentina Way' Opens Thursday on Met's Screen

"Down Argentina Way," Twentieth Century Fox's new Technicolor musical, featuring Don Ameche, Betty Grable, and Carmen Miranda, will have its local debut Thursday on the Metropolitan screen.

Second picture on the double bill will be "Sky Murder," M-G-M's newest Nick Carter mystery with Walter Pidgeon once again cast as the famous sleuth.

The story of "Down Argentina Way" is focused on the 6000-mile romance between Ameche and lovely Betty Grable. Playing the role of a rich South American horseman, Ameche captivates the blonde beauty, but is forced by parental order to pass her by. Betty follows him to his native Buenos Aires, and then follows an exciting climax to a brilliant story.

The picture marks the screen debut of the sensational Carmon debut of the sensational Carmen stress who took Boston and New York by storm when she appeared in "The Streets Of Paris." Playing herself in the picture, she sings several numbers including "South American Way" and "Bambu."

Featured in support of the popular trio are Henry Stephenson, Charlotte Greenwood, J. Carroll Naish, Katharine Aldridge and Loondi Kinskey.

DON AMECHE signs and Betty Grable's an attentive listener in "Down Argentine Way," coming Thursday to the Metropolitan.

BILL AT OLYMPIA

"Sporting Blood," romance-drama with a racetrack background and Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan for co-stars, and "Money and the Woman," with Jeffrey Lynn and Brenda Marshall, are to be seen on the Washington St. Olympia screen, starting tomorrow.

Ann Corio Revue Packs Old Howard

Her theatrical sense sharpened by her recent summer stock appearance, burlesque's reigning Queen, Ann Corio, is a bigger hit than ever in her current Old Howard appearance in "Strip Strip Ahoy!" Assisting Miss Corio are a cast of 60 headed by Sherry Britton and Dorothy Henry of "Milk Bath" fame.

Casino Has Boom

Censorship trouble, as is not unusual, has proved a boxoffice bonanza to the Casino Theater, on Hanover st. near Scollay sq., where Ed Ryan's newest production, "Girls from the Follies," is the attraction.

Gladys Clark, "the girl with the dreamy eyes," is the star of the show, which also boasts Loye Astrid, Marcellia and Duvalda, who are being held over a second week by popular demand

GLADYS GEORGE'S PORTRAYAL OF JULIA WINS AT WILBUR

'Lady in Waiting' Given Premiere

By PEGGY DOYLE

A glorious evening was had by all last evening when Gladys George introduced Wilbur Theater first-nighters to Julia, the incredibly unlikable but endearingly warm-hearted heroine of Margery Sharp's "Lady in Waiting." With a few minor exceptions, the cast is the same that originally participated in the Broadway premiere in March.

The play, based on Miss Sharp's popular novel "The Nutmeg Tree" is no great shakes. Miss George only makes it seem so to the majority in the audience. Her Julia, who is so frantically eager to be a lady for the sake of her priggish daughter, is an irresistible composite of vulgarity, naivete humor, leerers and dead-pated femininess. In the book, she was one of last year's most amusing discoveries. In the play she is no less diverting.

Miss George, who has a way with those items of stage and screen, makes Julia come alive as the book's fanciers could hardly believe possible. That business of executing the action in the second scene to Julia's thoroughly utilitarian bathroom was a folksy idea and the dressing-up quickie under the blue matabou robe was something Dr. Giovanni himself could not have lettered.

• • •

It is during this intimate scene that the postman's ring brings a letter to Julia from her blue-stocking daughter, Susan, played with appropriate loveliness by Carol Curtis-Brown, who resides in Muzin, France, with her maternal grandmother, the aristocratic Mrs. Lackett.

The impulsive Julia who has taken refuge in the bathroom from the bailiff who has come to collect on a concertina she has purchased for an indigent musician, barters her few possessions for the back payments and her channel passage.

It is just the beginning of Julia's Bankhead adventures. There is Fred Genocchio, handsomest of "The Six Genocchios," for instance, who is so appreciative of her practical kindness to his seasick mother that he buys her a drink. She tries hard but she can't resist him.

Arrived at her mother-in-law's the next morning, she meets a poised, unemotional, intellectual girl who is quite unprepared for this frivolous mother who is straining so ineffectually to be a lady. To add to her predicament, the good-looking gardener she had assumed was French and unable to understand her outrageously frank reminiscences with her maid proves to be the daughter's fiance.

• • •

Julia is in the midst of trying to extricate herself from that difficult situation when her daughter's highly placed guardian, Sir William Warring, saunters in. He is none other than that "very distinguished-looking gentleman" on the channel boat for whose sake Julia could toss overboard the gaudy Genocchio and every other man in her life.

And, while putting Julia through her tightrope paces and watching her teeter dangerously, Sir William, in true paper-backed novelette fashion, comes through with "I Want You For Myself." It sort of spoils Julia's act and Miss Sharp's first play, which are at their mutual best when the showy heroine is in the clinches.

Carole Lombard, Laughton On Keith Screen Thursday

"They Knew What They Wanted," the RKO Radio production based on the late Sidney Howard's Pulitzer Prize play and co-starring Carole Lombard and Charles Laughton, comes to Keith-Memorial screen on Thursday simultaneously with its showing at New York's Radio City Music Hall. It is to be given its world premiere in San Francisco tonight.

Teamed with the famed Laughton co-starrer are John Barrymore's new starring film success, "The Great Profile" and, as a special attraction, the latest issue of March of Time's "Britain's R. A. F."

The stars play two lonely people from contrasting walks of life. For Laughton the jovial California vineyardist, Tony Patrici, who yearns for a wife to share his modest wealth and picturesque ranch in another unusual portrait to add to his gallery of well-rounded characterizations.

The glamorous Miss Lombard breaks away from her conventional in her role of the hard working waterfront waitress, lonely and discouraged, who accepts a mail proposal to wed the wealthy grape grower but can't resist his amorous foreman, William Gargan.

BOWDOIN'S FILMS

Metro's "We Who Are Young," co-starring Lana Turner and Lew Ayres, and "The Man I Married," with Joan Bennett, Lloyd Nolan, Otto Kruger and Florence Lederer, begins a three-day run on Bowdoin Square screen, starting tomorrow.

'Panama Hattie' Arrives Tonight

With a contingent of Broadway notables on hand, Ethel Merman rings up the curtain at the Shubert Theater tonight on the newest musical comedy, "Panama Hattie," in which Ethel, Merman is the star. Featured players in a cast of upward of 100 include Arthur Treacher, Betty Hutton, Lenny Dunn, Phil Regan, Joe Cook, Rags Ragland, Pat Harring-ton, Frank Hayes and Nadine Gae.

All this musical performance is under the supervision of Schwab and Mandel, co-producers of such successful shows as "Let's Face It," now in its 100th week on Broadway. Seats for this opening performance are now on sale at the box office.

NO LESS A PERSON than venerable Uncle Sam is hindering Nancy Peabody of Cambridge and John Philip Lee of Brookline in the completion of their wedding plans . . . A number of the future bridegroom's college friends are on active duty in the Army and Navy and John can't call the roll of his ushers until he hears when the be-whiskered gentleman will grant them leave . . .

Since the usher staff usually outnumbers the bridesmaids by two or four in a fashionable wedding, Nancy must postpone inviting her attendants until she knows how many ushers there will be . . .

However, the date, Nov. 16, and the place, Christ Church, Cambridge, have been definitely decided upon and Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, formerly of Christ Church, is coming on from his new post in Washington, D. C., to tie the knot . . .

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Codman Peabody of Cambridge . . . A member of the Junior League and Vincent Club, she is an expert figure skater, gifted musician and has acted in a number of League plays, all talents which will make her a popular addition to the younger set in Youngstown, Ohio, where she and John will make their new home . . .

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Haifdan Lee . . . He graduated from Harvard in 1933 and from Harvard Business School last June . . .

Though it's a bit early for a whirl of pre-wedding parties, Nancy has already been honored at a surprise stocking shower given by Charlotte Hutchins of Concord, and as a result will have a well filled hosiery cabinet for some time to come . . .

Socialites on Shopping Tours

THAT OLD FEMININE cry "I have nothing to wear" has started all over again with the change of season . . . and if the number of socialites we encountered in the shopping centers yesterday is any criterion, wardrobes will soon be bulging with enticing arrays of fall and winter togs . . .

Blonde Nancy Nye was shopping for woolen yard goods . . . her lovely peaches and cream complexion set off by an apple green tweed suit and matching hat trimmed with a bright scarlet feather . . . Eleanor Almy Miller was being fitted to a two-tone green wool reefer which enhanced the reddish gold tints in her hair . . . The newly engaged Mary Emery was in from Framingham Center for a bit of trousseau shopping . . .

Looking for ideas to dress up a certain corner of her antique-filled Beacon Hill home, Mrs. Robert Cushman made a visit to an interior decorator's establishment on Arlington st. . . . Debutante Polly Curtis dashed into a Newbury st. shop for a dress fitting, her luxurious golden hair enhanced by a Yale blue wool ensemble . . .

Waistlines

Key to Health, Gals Told

Keep your waistlines, gals, if you want to retain your youthful charm. This is the advice passed on to a prominent group of society women yesterday at a tea given for Madame Lauri Alwyn, noted British health educationist, at the Ritz-Carlton.

Chatting informally over the tea cups the striking British visitor pointed out that in keeping themselves both physically and mentally fit, her countrywomen are able to withstand the rigors and hardships of blitzkriegs. She advocates effortless and scientific exercise as a means of building up a sound mind and body, and is visiting Boston to give a series of lectures on the subject.

Mrs. Philip K. Brown of Waban presided at the tea table and among the guests showing great interest in the problems of health and beauty were Mrs. Harold Lamont, Mrs. Oliver Andrews, Miss Rebekah Hobbs, Mrs. Frank Stewart with her daughter, Mrs. C. Stewart Black, Mrs. E. Fred Cullen with her daughter, Lee, Mrs. Guy Maynard and Mrs. Alexander Steinert.

Donovan, chairman, and Miss Jean Kiley, who is in charge of table reservations, will meet with their committees at the Hotel Vendome this afternoon to discuss plans for the forthcoming supper dance to be held for the benefit of the Guild of St Elizabeth. The dance will be held in the Balinese room of the Hotel Somerset, Wednesday evening Oct. 16.

Heath Betrothal Interests Boston Socialites

An engagement of interest to Bostonians is that of Miss Philbin Heath to Bache McEvers Whitlock, Jr., which is announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Heath of Hewlett, L. I., parents of the bride-to-be.

Miss Heath graduated from the Sacred Heart Convent and Ballard School and made her debut in the 1938-39 season. She is the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Heath of Boston, and the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Orr of New York.

Mr. Whitlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. McE. Whitlock of Hewlett, attended St. Mark's School and graduated from Harvard in 1938. He belongs to A. D. Club, Hasty Pudding, Knickerbocker and Rockaway Hunting Clubs. He is now engaged in the advertising business in New York.

Sale Benefits War Relief

Mrs. John Adie, Mrs. John Amory and Mrs. Gaspar G. Bacon are members of the committee assisting with preparations for a sale of antiques, gifts and household furnishings to be sponsored for the benefit of the British War Relief Society, Oct. 16 to 30, 691 Boylston st.

Mrs. Robert Emmons, Jr., has already donated a beautiful Italian antique settee.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

'SQUEER—isn't it?—how you blow up, slop over or fade out at times when you've every intention of remaining calm, cool 'n' collected.

Embarrasses you horribly, too—doesn't it?—to make such a spectacle of yourself. You despise people who flop in emergencies or fly into tantrums.

Sometimes you almost wonder if there aren't devils who take possession of people, make them do things they don't want to.

There are, partner! Only those devils don't "just happen." We create them ourselves. In secrecy and darkness, in complacency and conceit, we create the devils who destroy us!

I AM REREADING I. A. R. Wylie's "Furious Young Man" (Little, Brown & Co., publishers). Grand book. The grimmest record yet written of that cruel farce, Communism. There's a passage in it that exactly suits those tantrums and fade-outs you deplore. It refers to a young man who is swept by the same mysterious current of impulse. No one could have had higher ideals than Torrens Wyatt, or made a greater mess of them!

With the most glorious intentions, he uproots bewildered working men from the English lanes they love . . . leads them into skull-cracking riots . . . finds himself standing at last in Russia's Red Square, wondering, bitterly, what he himself is all about. As you and I have wondered!

"Are you frightened?" says the girl who loves him.

"A little. Not of them, though—"

"Of whom?"

"Myself."

"I know," he said. "We can deal with outside forces. It is the incalculable stranger within ourselves that we have to fear."

"Is there a stranger in you, Tor?"

"It seems so," he said wryly. "Someone who has been lying in wait for me. I didn't know anything about him. I don't know what he intends to do. But I know he will do it at any cost."

"THE STRANGER within ourselves." You've felt that stranger at work. So've I.

He happened to inhabit us because we invited him, built him, gave him his power.

Every time we give way to a reckless impulse without studying its consequences, we help create that ruthless, irrational "stranger within us." Every time we evade a challenging issue . . . abandon ourselves to irrational rage or desire . . . we endow that stranger with dangerous power.

What'll set us free from these mysterious flops? Just one thing—the Truth.

To see ourselves as we really are; to estimate the profit or peril of our own impulses.

That alone will set us free. But it'll take a lot of doing. Believe me, for I know! As a haven for "incalculable strangers," I'm a regular barracks!

Roast Chicken, Pie---My!

By MARTHA LEE

Tantalizing odors o fchicken cooking oven-wise to a golden brown succulence, with savory dressing and pumpkin pie! Here are two "firsts" of the season—roast chicken and fresh pumpkin pie—a meal to share with guests on one of those first crispy fall days that are in the offing.

Roasting chickens, meaty, tender and flavorful, are in the market ready to help you with your meal planning. Roasting two small chickens rather than one large one will facilitate the carving problem, speed the service at the table, and simplify the matter of second servings. And, not the least, two chickens, roasted brown, plump and juicy, give the table an air of elegance.

BAKE DRESSING SEPARATELY

Another idea for facilitating the service (and it simplifies the preparation of the chicken, too), is to bake the dressing separately, choosing a loaf pan or a shallow casserole. Serve the dressing on a separate plate, slice or "spoon" it for service, depending upon its consistency.

Prepare your favorite dressing of stale bread, add 2 or 3 well beaten eggs for binding, if it is to slice nicely, and be certain that it is well seasoned. Pack into well greased pan, not too firmly; it won't need to be firm with eggs to bind it. Place in the oven with the chicken during the last hour of roasting, basting occasionally with the chicken juices from the bottom of the roaster.

If extra dressing is planned, it may be used as a base for creamed chicken made from the roast chicken tidbits. Slice the dressing, dip it in crumbs and fry crisply brown in chicken drippings, or butter. With hot creamy chicken ladled over it, a second dinner is three-fourths made.

ROASTING CHICKEN

To prepare chicken for roasting, rub seasoning thoroughly into inside cavity, using about ¼ teaspoon salt per pound of bird and pepper as desired. Place in roasting pan on a rack, roast uncovered in moderate oven, 325 deg. F. to 350 deg. F., about 35 minutes per pound. Brush frequently with melted fat, or drippings from the bottom of the pan. To test doneness, grasp drumstick end; if hip joint (joint where leg is attached to body) moves easily, the chicken is done. Never prick the meat with a fork for judging doneness—juices are lost, and it is not a good test.

MAKE PASTRY AHEAD

If the pastry for the pumpkin pie is mixed a day in advance and wrapped carefully, its goodness will not be harmed with a 24-hour chilling period in the refrigerator. The filling, too, may be mixed in advance (except the milk or cream) and the pie dispatched promptly the next day before the oven is needed for the chicken. Add the milk or cream boiling hot just before placing filling into pie shell. The hot liquid warms the filling and hastens cooking.

Such a plan as this will make dinner preparation for two dinners facile and delightful.

PUMPKIN PIE

2 eggs, or 4 yolks, beaten
¾ cup brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. ginger
1½ cups milk or cream
1½ cans sieved pumpkin pulp

Combine eggs, sugar, salt and spices. Stir in milk, then pumpkin, and mix well. Pour into unbaked crust and bake in a hot oven 450 deg. F., for 10 to 15 minutes, then reduce temperature to 325 deg. F. for 25 minutes longer or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. Makes one 9 inch pie.

REDEEM THOSE LOST DAYS FOR ACTIVE LIVING . . . WITH MIDOL

What confidence it gives, to go through the month without dread of "regular" pain. And what comfort, not having to give-in when trying days come!

Midol, a new formula developed for its special purpose, relieves the functional pain of menstruation for millions of women. Why not try it? It contains no opiates. One comforting Midol ingredient is prescribed frequently by thousands of doctors. Another—exclusively in Midol—further fortifies its relief by helping to reduce spasmodic pain peculiar to the menstrual process.

If you have no organic disorder calling for medical or surgical treatment, you should find Midol effective. If it doesn't help you, see your doctor. All drugstores have Midol. Five tablets—more than enough for a convincing trial—20¢; 12 tablets, 40¢.

You Can Be Beautiful

Here's Chance to Try Some Exclusive Cosmetics

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN YOU'RE staying in town some night, and you have an empty hour stretching before you . . . use it to your best glamour-advantage! Go to a beautiful little gem of a salon, with shining clear light all through it, much mirror and comfortable little chairs . . . and introduce yourself to some truly exciting cosmetics through a complimentary make-up!

It's an unusual service . . . this salon stays open until 7 in the evening, just so you may do this! Or "try on" a new make-up during the day time, before a luncheon or matinee date. You see, this is an exclusive line of cosmetics and they believe in showing you what they can do for you!

During this week, their $2 powder, specially blended to suit your complexion, is to be only $1, and you might want to stock up, along with their regular fans, to whom this is a great event.

We think the most unusual angle of the complimentary make-up is the opportunity to try any of their exclusive cosmetics, such as a wonderfully stimulating, combination smoothing, "pick up mask." Your complexion is thoroughly analyzed before the make-up and your try out can include some of the unique corrective cosmetic aids that this line features.

At the same time, it's apt to be the most unusual color "demonstration" that has ever been performed right on your own face . . . something extra chic and sophisticated, or something softly radiant and becoming . . . whatever the analyst orders!

If you'd like to learn all about this unusual complimentary salon service, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If You Want Extra Fast NEURALGIA RELIEF

Here's that Amazing BAYER Way that starts "taking hold" of such a pain usually in a short time

In two seconds by stop watch a genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet begins to disintegrate. It is ready to begin relief in a short time!

You can see for yourself how quickly Genuine Bayer Aspirin starts to work

See the amazing split second way Bayer Aspirin starts to disintegrate almost the instant it touches moisture, making it available to "take hold" of headache, neuralgia, or the pains of rheumatism and neuritis with almost unbelievable speed. It's no wonder relief from any common pain starts usually in a remarkably short time.

On this point of speed alone genuine Bayer Aspirin has won millions of users. Try it. Then if pain persists, see your doctor. Let him find the cause and treat it.

Costs only 1c a Tablet

Now this same genuine Bayer Aspirin your own doctor probably recommends . . . costs only 1c a tablet. So practically anyone can afford genuine quick-acting Bayer Aspirin. Be sure you ask for it by the full name "Bayer Aspirin" when you buy and never try the name "aspirin" alone.

If you've never used Bayer Aspirin before for headache, neuralgia or rheumatic pains, try it once. You, too, will say results are truly remarkable . . . relief comes amazingly fast.

LOANS AT REDUCED RATES

Reduced rates cut payments on all loans over $100

You can get a loan from $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $8.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods. Payments in the table repay everything Household's rate of 2½% per month has long been below the lawful maximum. Now a new reduction has cut Household's rate to 2% per month on that part of your loan in excess of $100.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on finance or credit only. No credit inquiries. None of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

A DAY WITH MR .BOSTON . . . Taking a peek at the World Series news, and making a silent wish that Bill McKechnie's Reds make a stout hearted finish so as to help National League baseball and also the Cincinnati leader who was always swell to sports writers when he managed the Braves . . . Asking an office boy to furnish me with a copy of the Green Race Special as I prepared to get the noon train to Salem, N. H., for the Rockingham Park opening.

TOM THORP

Surprised to find the Boston & Maine had some reconditioned cars on the Rockingham Special . . . A decided contrast to some of the Civil War models that did service during the Summer meeting . . . Many of the same people who had closed Narragansett Park on Saturday on their way to the old 'Rock in quest of a few winners.

The same familiar sellers of "winners straight from the feed box by handicappers who know all the answers" . . . I had a thought for Long Shot Reilly, now dead, who used to sell a card on the train . . . The late Joe Maynard, former Collector of the Port of Boston, was one of Reilly's regulars.

"How do you do with your card?" Joe once asked Reilly.

"The card business is all right," responded Long Shot, "but I also try to beat the races and I usually end up with grief."

Anyhow Reilly had a lot of fun, and wouldn't have known what to do with a great deal of money if he had accumulated it . . . A hello from Kid Zizzle who has been selling newspapers and race sheets in the trains since racing first came to New England . . . When Zizzle whispers the name of a horse into anyone's ear the nag is quoted at least as a 10 to 1 shot.

Arriving at Rockingham Park to find Emergency Kelly at the press gate extending a hand of welcome to the visiting firemen . . . Early comers eating box lunches while resting on the grass near the turn at the head of the stretch . . . Lou Smith standing in front of the Administration Building and showing more concern about a testimonial dinner he is planning for Sergeant Eddie Mack at the Copley Plaza on Nov. 13 than he was about his own opening . . . Mrs. Lou Smith dressed in a smart Fall outfit and wearing an orchid.

Col. Dave Egan extending the hand of welcome to the boys of the press and promising not to tout any of them on long shots . . . The Colonel taking time out to say a few friendly words about the National League, and to scowl a bit about the way football is conducted at Harvard.

* * *

Glassed-in Clubhouse Makes a Hit

SAM SIMONS taking me on a personal tour of the new glassed in clubhouse . . . You can sit in any of the 472 box seats and take the sun through glass on a chilly day . . . For the opening the weather was so warm that all of the windows were opened wide . . . Sixteen mutuel windows have been built in the upstairs part of the clubhouse which will make it unnecessary for the cash customers to do much road work when placing their bets.

More glass downstairs with the clubhouse extended 50 feet so that it meets the runway for the horses from the paddock to the track . . . Harry Hayes seeing that everything was moving along smoothly in the lower part of the clubhouse . . . With, of course, plenty of mutuel windows for the noble breed of bettors.

From the clubhouse one could see the autumn touch to the trees and bushes . . . Fall with all its beauty has come to the foothills of the White Mountains.

* * *

Wilson Picks First Three in Row

THE SOUND OF the bugle, the parade of the horses to the track and the start of the first race under the direction of Bob Frend . . . With Tom Thorp, Billy Almy, Jr., Charles Stickney, Herman Conkling and this writer watching the race from the stewards' stand . . . Advancer, the favorite, came down in front . . . Erect took the second race, while Ariel Trip was the victor in the third race . . All named to win by Dave Wilson . . . It was a big day for the favorites with six winning and two finishing second.

Mon Dolt, who paid $46.40 when he beat out Scotch High, the favorite, in the eighth race was overlooked by the bettors in view of his recent victory at Narragansett . . . It was a race for horses entered for $1000 to $1250 and anything could happen.

Eddie Welsh and Howard Reynolds talking about the Eddie Mack testimonial dinner after the races, and everybody promising to make it the biggest affair of its kind ever held in Boston . . . The dinner is to have a special feature—no speeches unless you may wish to class the old Sergeant's remarks as a speech . . . The best entertainment in town will take the place of long winded and useless oratory .

NEWSOM, TIGER HURLER, IN IRON-MAN EPIC TRY

CROSLEY FIELD, Cincinnati, Oct. 8 (AP)—Big "Buck" Newsom, Detroit's two-time winner over Cincinnati, was called back after a one-day rest to oppose the Reds today in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

BUCK NEWSOM
Back in Series

Paul Derringer who has split even in two starts against the Tigers, was Manager "Deacon Bill" McKechnie's mound choice for the all important fray.

Skipper Del Baker of the Detroits kept his selection secret until a half hour before the game started. He had wavered between Newsom and Tony Bridges, winner of the third game of the series, but finally decided that Newsom, who has allowed only two runs in his 18 innings, was the best bet.

HIDES SELECTION

Newsom beat the Reds, 7 to 2, in the opener, and came back Sunday at Detroit with a three-hitter to triumph by 8 to 0. Derringer was batted out in the first game, but allowed the Tigers only five hits in winning Saturday's contest 5 to 2.

Baker kept his pitching selection under cover by not sending a hurler up to the plate during batting practice. Bridges "shagged" flies in the outfield during the drill while Newsom did not get off the bench. Newsom did not have his glove with him as he strolled from the dressing room to the dugout.

Nearly half the reserved seats, Reds' officials said, remained unsold three hours before game time although the club's downtown office remained open all night and the Crosley Field windows were open until early morning.

BLEACHER FANS OUT

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati's traveling secretary, said he expected a crowd far under capacity, adding:

"To the best of my knowledge no seventh game of a World Series has never been sold out."

Only the bleacherites showed the enthusiasm that might be expected in a city whose team was knocking at the door of a world championship for the first time in 21 years.

About 1500 were lined up at the $1.35 windows soon after dawn, the front rows having been there since two minutes after [illegible] final out.

An hour and a half before game time the right field bleachers were well filled, but only the ushers were in the grand stand.

PERFECT WEATHER

The playing field was in perfect shape, and weather conditions, except for a brisk west wind were ideal. A bright sun shone and the temperature was 68 but rising steadily. The wind, blowing toward

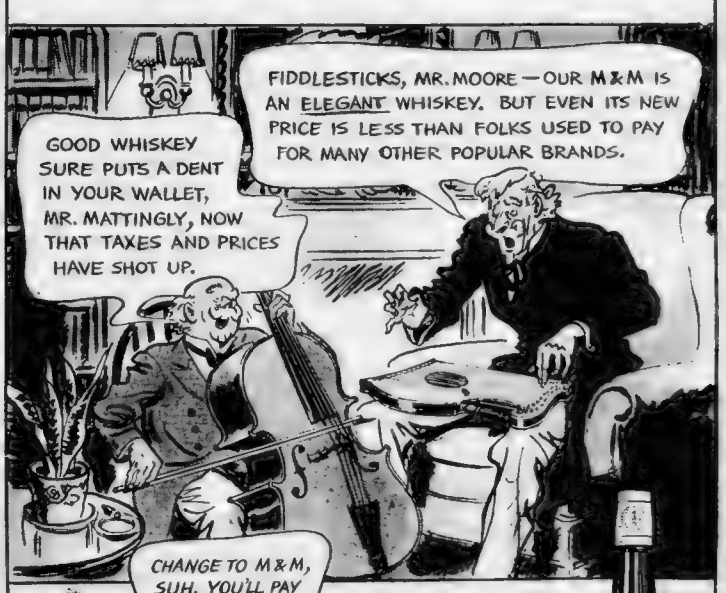
How to pay the new liquor tax and save it, too!



GOOD WHISKEY SURE PUTS A DENT IN YOUR WALLET, MR. MATTINGLY, NOW THAT TAXES AND PRICES HAVE SHOT UP.
FIDDLESTICKS, MR. MOORE—OUR M&M IS AN ELEGANT WHISKEY. BUT EVEN ITS NEW PRICE IS LESS THAN FOLKS USED TO PAY FOR MANY OTHER POPULAR BRANDS.
CHANGE TO M&M, SUH. YOU'LL PAY LESS AND LIKE IT BETTER!

THE NEW liquor tax, levied for national defense, is a good tax. Pay it gladly. But don't let your whiskey budget out a notch—it's unnecessary. Simply switch to M&M—the mild, pleasant whiskey that costs you less, saves you the tax while you pay it. Today's M&M is, in fact, milder and better-tasting than ever before—satin-smooth. Try it.

Oscar Vitt Refuses To Quit as Manager

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 8 (AP)—Home from the baseball wars, Oscar Vitt, manager of the dissension-wracked Cleveland Indians said today he had not resigned because "I'm no quitter."

Vitt expressed belief the players' rebellion was inspired by two or three disgruntled athletes. It was climaxed when Bobby Feller, and a number of his team mates marched into the office of Alva Bradley, president of the Indians, and demanded that Vitt cease riding them or quit his job. Vitt declined to name the player or players he thought responsible for the trouble.

Bob Feller

"I knew nothing about the trouble until I got back from a Father and Son meeting at Lynn, Mass., where I appeared as a speaker earlier in the evening. Bob Feller was to have gone down there with me. And I guess at the time I was telling what a fine boy he was, he was among those presenting the firing squad at what was supposed to be my execution.

"Only two or three did the talking. The others who appeared before Bradley were only onlookers. I believe the boys are sorry for what they did. After the final game of the season every one of them shook my hand, and with one or two exceptions, said they hoped I'd be back with them next spring.

"As for me making a 'nervous wreck' out of Feller, that is a laugh. A father couldn't have given a son more consideration than I showed Bob at all times.

"A different situation would have prevailed and I say this in all frankness, had I been given the backing that any manager is entitled to expect. On one occasion a player I had suspended for a flagrant violation showed up in uniform the next day. I told him he was through, temporarily. He replied: 'No I'm not. I fixed it up with the front office. They told me to come back and apologize to you and everything would be all right.'"

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8 (AP) Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball Club, said here regarding Manager Oscar Vitt's charges of office interference:

"I don't know anything about that. It's news to me.

"I haven't been able to get the ball club directors to meet," he continued with respect to action on the managership. "I am leaving Friday for New York and then will go to Sea Island, near Savannah, Ga., for two weeks vacation. When I return we will call a directors' meeting and arrive at a decision."

Sports Review

By International News Service

Today's final World Series game will give Paul Derringer his second win in the series or establish Buck Newsom among a half dozen players who have scored three triumphs in a single series.

Final series games to be played under fair skies and in low 60s temperature, according to weather man.

With nine double plays already to their credit, Reds have chance to tie or beat all-time record of 10 for a series.

GARDELLA SHIFTED TO TAILBACK BERTH

Capt. Joe Gardella has been placed on the second team at Harvard in the tailback spot and is being groomed as the replacement for Charley Spreyer with the Michigan nightmare approaching.

Harlow was forced to move the Crimson captain to the important running back berth as a result of an injury to Don McNicol in the Amherst game.

Gardella's place at bucking back will be occupied by either Bill Brown or soph Mort Waldstein. Local fans have not yet seen Waldstein. Mort is potentially the best back on the Harvard squad.

STAR KICKER

At the present time he is the only Cantab piledriver and is the best kicker on the team. He was held out of the game with the Jeffs.

Reds Nearing Double Play Series Record

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (INS)—With nine double plays to their credit already against the Detroit Tigers in the World Series, the Cincinnati Reds today had the chance to tie or beat the all-time record of 10 for a series, set by the Washington Senators in 1924.

This is in direct contrast to their performance against the New York Yankees last year, when the Reds tied the all-time low record with one double play.

Buccs Release Dan M'Fayden

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 8 (AP)—The unconditional release of Danny MacFayden, veteran right-hand pitcher from Somerville, Mass., was announced today by Bill Benswanger, president of the Pirates.

The club office commented that being more than 34 years old and with 15 major league seasons behind him, "Danny did not fit in with the policy of Manager Frank Frisch to rebuild the Pittsburgh club with young men."

MacFayden has pitched in both major leagues, having been with the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, Cincinnati Reds and Boston Bees, as well as the Pirates.

Pittsburgh got him from the Bees in a trade last winter. He won five and lost four this year, but did not pitch a complete game. His 15-year record is 132 victories and 156 defeats.

Johnston Leads Pro Scorers

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP) -Jimmy Johnston, Washington halfback, moved into a first place tie with Don Looney, Philadelphia end, in the National Football League individual scoring with three touchdowns in the Redskins' last game.

Michigan Eleven Best in Big Ten

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (INS)—Three Big Ten football teams, Michigan, Ohio State and Minnesota, were listed one-two-three, in that order, today in the Azzi Reiter rankings of the nation's grid leaders.

Other elevens in the first 10 were ranked as follows: Cornell, Texas A. and M., Texas Christian, Northwestern, Georgetown, Tennessee and Fordham.

WILLIAMS IN SHAPE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 8 (INS) —Williams football team was in remarkably good shape today, following its gruelling contest with Army Saturday. Light drills, however, were the extent of yesterday's workout.

Jockey Barba in Critical Condition

EW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Jockey Johnny Barba, who booted home Grey Wolf, a 26 to 1 shot, to w ' the Interborough Handicap in the opening day of the season at Jamaica yesterday only to go down with his mount, Canape, in the next race, was still in a critical condition today.

Mary Immaculate Hospital at Jamaica reported "no change" in his condition during the night. It was feared he had suffered a fractured skull. He was described as too badly hurt to permit X-rays.

MONTGOMERY GETS 1ST TEAM CHANCE

The gent who is very liable to steal the show when Boston College meets Temple University at Fenway Park on Saturday afternoon has been lost in the shadows of late.

Lou Montgomery, who always delived greatest gridiron delight in dueling Salem's Al Juralewicz, is very apt to have the biggest day of his collegiate career.

"Lightnin' Louie" has been threatening to explode for three seasons now. Oct. 12 may be the day.

MARKED MAN

Montgomery has done well at Boston College. None will deny that. However, the Brockton idol has never really hit the peak so many figured he'd reach as a collegian.

There are obvious reasons for the comparatively small touchdown total amassed by Montgomery. First and foremost of these is the fact that it's college football he's now playing.

There's a vast difference between the high school and college type of game. Some lads just can't bridge the difference between the two, though of course Montgomery isn't one of these.

On the other hand, though, Louie and his jitterbugging has made him a marked man. "Montie" didn't need blockers in high school where he could run the legs off any 11 men on any given afternoon. Among the collegians the best of 'em (Harmon needs his Eveshevski) can't do much without the proper amount of blocking and Montgomery is seldom given the opportunity of working with the first string lineup, which features such blockers as Henry Toczylowski, George Kerr and Joe Zabilski.

GETS BIG CHANCE

Saturday though, Head Coach Frank Leahy indicated yesterday, Montgomery and Frank "Monk" Maznicki will work the right halfback slot with Team A. If that happens watch Louis—if you can follow him.

Forced by one reason or another his size, the fact that he couldn't be used in every game, and the presence of other great right halfbacks, to operate with second and third stringers, Montgomery has never had a real field day during his college career. Given the proper opportunity, as he quite likely will, the lithe limbed colored lad from Brockton may gobble all the headlines when he and his Eagle mates meet arch rival Juralewicz and the latter's Temple pals.

(Remember the 20-20 tie ball game and personal duel between the lads when Brockton and Salem battled back in 1939? The good villagers of Salem will never forget the game.)

Terriers Hit Hard By Injuries

As the Boston University injury list grows, it begins to look as though the Terriers' only chance against Manhattan next Friday night would be to play six man football.

There has never been a year like it in Terrier history.

Pressed for an explanation this morning, Coach Pat Hanley brought this interesting sidelight:

"The injuries to Lazata, Rooney and Sullivan were just the breaks of the game that occurred during scrimmages.

"Last Saturday, though, we really ran into a slew of trouble," continued Pat, "and the reason for it was that my team wasn't mentally ready for Upsala.

UNDERRATED UPSALA

"I tried to impress the fact that Upsala was a big, tough club all last week but the varsity men felt that any team that could only beat Muhlenberg by a touchdown couldn't be much.

"The result was that they weren't in there giving that little extra something until Upsala marched to the one foot line. Then, they snapped out of it but a bit too late as far as injuries were concerned.

"Right now we have so great a list of ankle, knee and tendon injuries together with a flock of minor bruises that it will handicap up no little against Manhattan. In fact these mishaps are apt to result in the breakup of what promised to be a pretty fair football team."

MUST BE MADE OF IRON

And it's little wonder that Pat Hanley is worried. Ken Skoropowski and Charlie Cremens are the only two experienced guards on the squad. Ken is in the hospital under observation while Cremens has a hand so badly swollen that it was X-rayed for a possible break.

If that wasn't bad enough, Carl Erickson, who was being groomed to fill in for Skoropowski this week, reported yesterday with a broken toe which sidelines him for a while.

Summing up this situation—the story is that Boston University will have to play "Iron Men" from necessity, not from choice.

8 Knockouts Spice Arena Amateur Card

KNOW HIM? — He's Joe Hoague, an unsung Weston youngster who found grid fame at Colgate. A fullback, Andy Kerr rates him a great all-around toiler, and pins much of his victory hope on Joe's sturdy shoulders this Saturday against Brown at Providence.

GREEN VIEWS MISTAKES

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 8 (INS)—Dartmouth began drilling for Columbia today after first viewing moving pictures of Saturday's game with Franklin and Marshall.

Pilot Claims Pastor Through as Fighter

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (INS)—Fight Manager James Joy Johnston last night charged that his fighter, Heavyweight Bob Pastor, of New York, probably would have to retire from the ring because of "injuries received on foul blows delivered by Light-Heavyweight Billy Conn."

(Conn knocked out the New York heavyweight in the 13th round of a scheduled 15-round fight in New York on Sept. 6.)

M'LAUGHRY, KERR RIVALS FOR 32 YEARS

By the Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla.—If you want to see the 1940 version of the football "aerial circus" you might do worse than look at Jim Lookabaugh's Oklahoma Aggies. After the Aggies scored two touchdowns against Oklahoma on Jimmy Reynolds' passes and did everything but beat the Sooners, Lookabaugh had Reynolds, Jiggs Stuart, Al Scanland and Tate Ott out on the practice field with orders to "throw 'em."

WILLKIE DAY AIDS GAEL

NOTRE DAME, IND.—If Henry Schreiber's scholastic average of 88.11 isn't sufficient proof that he's one of the smartest men on the Notre Dame football squad, his teammates can offer further proof. Henry sold soft drinks for 25 cents each at the Wendell Willkie notification ceremony in his native Elwood, Ind., and made a good share of his expenses for the school year on one hot day.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The rivalry between Coaches Tuss McLaughry of Brown and Andy Kerr of Colgate, whose teams meet Saturday here, is as old as the 32-year football series between the colleges. They've been enemies in their coaching capacities only since 1929 and Kerr has been ahead all the time since then.

Their first encounter was in 1907, when McLaughry was fullback on the Sharon (Pa.) High School team and Kerr was coach at Pittsburgh Central High. Kerr's team won then and in the next three years that Tuss played for Sharon.

V. M. I. RUBBER GAME

LEXINGTON, Va.—More than 500 members of Virginia Military Institute's 749-man Cadet Corps will accompany their football team to Charlotte, N. C., for Saturday's game with Davidson. It's the "rubber" game in a series that stretches over 35 years. Each team has won 11 times so far and they never have played a tie.

DENVER—Milwaukee papers copy: The Wisconsin Brewing City had more players in the Regis College starting lineup Saturday than any other town, with five—John McGee, Phil Callen and Doug Shouldice in the line and Bill Walsh and Bill Newland in the backfield. Probably most of them will start the game against Rockhurst at Kansas City next Sunday.

Wilson Picks Four Winners At 'Rock' Opener

Dave Wilson

Dave, whose graded handicaps appear exclusively in the Green Race Special and Sunday Advertiser has been acknowledged the tops in turf experts since the birth of horse racing in New England.

Dave picked the first three winners on the card, including the Daily Double, saw his top choice finish second in the fourth event; and watched his second, and third choices account for the fifth and seventh races, respectively.

His winners were: Advancer, $6.20; Freet, $5.20; Arid Trip, $5.10, and Charitable, $5.

Raise Up Reverses Chatted's Decision

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—There doesn't seem to be any way of deciding the current racing rivalry between the Tower Stable's Raise Up, who won the Shawsheen purse at Laurel yesterday, and Mrs. Ethel Mars' Chatted, who was second. This race reversed the decision of their previous meeting and a five-pound shift in the weights was hardly enough to account for Raise Up's five-lengths margin. The difficulty seems to be that Chatted won on a muddy track and Raise Up on a fast one.

ROSLINDALE DUELS JAMAICA ELEVEN

By SAM BROGNA

Boston schools swing into their second week of action today at National League Field, with Roslindale facing Jamaica Plain in the opener and East Boston taking on Charlestown in the nightcap.

In the curtain riser, both elevens will be seeking their first win of the campaign. Roslindale opened its season last Wednesday against South Boston High and looked pathetic losing, 39 to 0. Jamaica Plain's outfit expected to go to town against East Boston the previous day, also took it on the chin by a 13 to 0 count.

Coach Jimmy Duffy, a little befuddered at the outcome of the conflict, was far from discouraged however and his pre-season prediction that Jamaica Plain would have a much better team this year than for the past five or so years, still goes.

He's had the boys working at a double pace at Healy Field since and reports they will shoot the works at Roslindale today and come on top. This shouldn't be a difficult job for the Plainers to accomplish since the Little Green, greener than their jerseys, should be soft pickings.

Coach Billy Murphy's Brighton team, undefeated and unscored upon district champions last year, taking the title away from South Boston which held it for two consecutive seasons, breaks into the grid picture tomorrow afternoon for the first time this year.

Their first defense stand will be made against Hyde Park high, winners over Charlestown high, 6 to 0. Brighton's appearance on the gridiron adds the finishing touches to the roll call as it is usually the last team to get started.

Also on the same program is the Dorchester vs. South Boston fracas, both winners of their opening games, the former whipping Roxbury Memorial, 6 to 2, and the Peninsular school lads victimizing Roslindale high, 39 to 0.

Following an off-day Thursday, the twin bill Friday has the High School of Commerce clashing with Mechanic Arts in the opener with English and Roxbury Memorial following. The bookkeepers were blanked 13 to 0 by Boston College High; the Artisans were held to a scoreless stalemate by Latin; the double blue topped Trade, 7 to 0, and Memorial, still making a desperate attempt to break into the win column, something which it has failed to do for the past three years, dropped a 6 to 2 decision to Dorchester in opening games last week.

* * *

Public Latin and Boston College High go outside the city limits for the second time this young campaign for their grid encounters, the purple invading Tech field, Brookline to rough it out with Harry Downes' eleven and the young Eaglets furnishing the opposition for the Revere Beachcombers. Both games will be played Columbus Day.

* * *

Another "Red" Hazel is in the making at Commerce. This time, it's Jack, brother of William "Red" Hazel, all-scholastic center back in 1934. Although not built as heavy as brother Bill, the younger Hazel, a junior standing an inch over the six foot mark, has the makings of a good lineman.

Young Hazel started at end last Friday against Boston College High and, alternating between this post and tackle, played the entire game—even with a broken thumb.

Scalpers Lose Shirts On Big Series Tickets

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—Hero of the series to date is Bill Werber of the Reds—the goat, Schoolboy Rowe . . . The River Downs race track here is bulging with the largest number of steeds since the joint opened in 1925 . . . Jimmy Grippo, the magician (who can pull dough out of a hat), is willing to guarantee Max Baer $20 000 to fight Melio Bettina (but he doesn't say what kind of dough).

It may have been the snappy weather, but we're telling you it would have been a cinch to get a seat to yesterday's game as low as $1.50 an hour and a half before the contests started . . . scalpers took a terrible licking—just as they did in Detroit . . . and it's about time, boys.

SAD, SAD STORY

In I go and out I go.
And that's the tale of schoolboy Rowe.

Miami U. (near here) has an end named Frank Viupits who takes a 20-mile ride to Middletown every morning to take flying lessons, always making sure he is back for football practice in the afternoon . . . The other day we recorded the Cubs were interested in getting Larry MacPhail to take over the front office job . . . well, here are the reactions: Phil K. Wrigley:

"I haven't anything to say about it. I understand Mr. MacPhail is doing pretty well in Brooklyn" . . . MacPhail: "That is something I cannot talk about." . . . Write your own tickets, gents.

HE'S THE TOPS

Most ingenious fan showed up yesterday . . . He was a guy who wore eight-foot stilts . . . He leaned over the left field fence and helped himself . . . When a park policeman protested, the guy did absolutely nothing about it, and did it very well . . . He saw the ball game—which is all that counted, at the moment.

What we all want to know is what has Duke got—if anything? . . . This is a hard-fought series and observers only wish all fans could be here at the ringside. A fine thing for baseball, too—people were getting a little tired of the Yankees walking away with everything.

Armstrong's loss to Fritzi Zivic the other night wasn't as much of a surprise as a lot of you thought . . . Don't forget the tipoff came when Phil Furr gave Henry a battering for four rounds a couple of weeks ago . . . There has never been a fighter like Henry, but even fellows like him can't go on forever . . . Thank goodness, he's got plenty in the bank.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEW:

Charlie Bachman, Michigan State coach: "Tom Harmon is the greatest running back I have ever seen in the many years I have been coaching football."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR:

Nixson Denton, Cincinnati. "Well, Cincinnati isn't a hundred per cent baseball town . . . One of our operatives reports that his next door neighbor was listening to a symphony orchestra Sunday afternoon."

Bears Hold Schoolboy Contests

Big league football fans will have an opportunity to see their local schoolboy stars perform at the Boston Bears-New York Yankees game at Fenway Park next Sunday afternoon.

The high-school players will take part in a series of contests involving forward passing, punting and place kicking. General Manager Sheldon H. Fairbanks of the Boston Bears, Coach Eddie Casey and George Kenneally who is acting in an advisory capacity for the Boston club, have already been given the cooperation of the football coaches of high schools in and around Boston.

SIX SCHOOLS EACH SUNDAY

The judges in the contest will be selected from the local colleges. Next Sunday, when the New York Yankees arrive to play the Bears, the first of the trials for the schoolboys will be held, and the first contestants will be chosen from six local high schools, and Sheldon Fairbanks will invite the six complete football squads from these schools. On each succeeding Sunday six other schools will take part.

The finals will take place at Fenway on October 27 and gold footballs, suitably engraved, will be presented to the schoolboy winners.

McKENNEY TO AID

Joe McKenney, Associate Director of the Boston schools and several other well-known high school officials will play parts in the series of contests. The events will get under way each Sunday about an hour before game time.

While the Bears experienced little difficulty in bringing the Cincinnati Bengals down to defeat on Sunday, Coach Casey will put the club through another series of vigorous practice sessions all this week at the Fens, in anticipation of the game next Sunday with the New York Yankees.

Memorial 'Cap On Tomorrow

SALEM, N. H., Oct. 8—Headed by three outstanding sprinters, Sir Marlboro, Night Editor and Votum, a field of 11 horses will go to the post tomorrow for the first important handicap of the Rockingham Park autumn meeting—the H. D. "Jim" Munroe Memorial Handicap.

This six furlong dash, named for the late racing secretary of the New Hampshire Jockey Club, shapes up as one of the most evenly matched contests of the season.

In addition to the three favorites, the entries named yesterday include R. A. Coward's U-Boat, Sheldon Fairbanks' Range Dust, James Emery's Dolly Val, Mrs. Sam Orr's Us, L. T. Whitehill's Teddy Kerry, J. Freedman's Wanna Hygro and the Trainer Tom Sanford entry, E. E. Fogelson's Smart Crack and C. Andrade III's Liberty Franc.

Sir Marlboro, from the stable of Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs in National Hockey League, was one of the best thoroughbreds at the recent Narragansett meeting, where he won the Whitman Handicap.

Votum is razor-sharp for competition.

Auturo Godoy Whips Dorazio

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rugged Arturo Godoy is safely past the first obstacle on the comeback trail that he hopes will lead to a third meeting with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

The 202-pound senor from Chile, making his first ring appearance since Louis stopped him in June took a unanimous 10-round decision last night from Philadelphia's Gus Dorazio in a slow fight.

It was the first bout Dorazio has lost in his last 12 starts. He weighed 194, heaviest of his career.

Aggressiveness and harder punching in the clinches won the nod for Godoy. Both elected to fight at close quarters and the crowd of 5000, who paid a gross of $5800, spent most of the evening shouting for action. Arturo landed the best blow of the fight in the third round, a smashing right to the jaw that staggered the stocky Italian.

Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, said he is trying to match the Chilean with Max Baer, Billy Conn or Tony Galento. He has offered Baer $20,000 to fight Godoy in Philadelphia.

As for Godoy, he says he is ready to fight Louis or anyone else.

In his dressing room Godoy showed a slight cut under his right eye. He got it, he said, when Dorazio "butted" him in the ninth.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 8 (INS)—Amherst smoothed its passing attack today. The Lord Jeffs were rewarded for their fine showing against Harvard with a light drill yesterday.

Bears at Peak For Yankees Here Sunday

The return of Carl Kaplanoff, giant tackle, puts the Boston Bears at full strength for their American Pro. League grid game against the New York Yankees at Fenway Park on Sunday afternoon.

Coach Eddie Casey will welcome the return ofthe bg tackle who was hurt early in the season. Kaplanoff, a 23-year-old, 235-pound lineman, was co-captain at Ohio State in 1938 and was mentioned as All-America tmat season. He played for the Brooklyn Dodgers last year.

Kaplanoff will replace either Vic Obeck, the iron man from Springfield, or Luke Linden, the mountaineer from Kentucky. Both of these players received little relief in Sunday's game with the Bengals because of an injury to Leslie Lane, the fourth tackle, who will also be ready Sunday.

Casey was pleased with the play of Tom Nash at end and the general improvement of the backs.

Spearhead of the Yankees' attack is Bill Hutchinson, former Dartmouth star, who plays quarterback. Other backs are Vannie Albanese of Syracuse, Wally Stresser, left-handed passing ace from St. Vincent's; Johnny Urban of Pittsburgh, Don Starr of Western Reserve, and Lloyd Ickes of Penn State, a fine pass receiver.

The Yankees' line averages 211 pounds.

Pimlico Special Entries Out Tomorrow

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 8 (AP)—Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the Maryland Jockey Club, plans to name the horses for the Pimlico Special tomorrow. Guesses around the press-box at Laurel include Challedon, Hash, Isolater, and Mioland at weight-for-age.

Game Bid Runs Dog Feature

Eight evenly matched greyhounds, representing some of America's best known kennels, will go to post in this evening's ninth race at Wonderland over the 5-16 mile course, feature event on the ten-race program.

Game Bid, red and white speedster from the Dow kennel, comes up with a season record over the local track of three wins, three seconds and seven thirds in 27 starts.

Bud Carroll's Gustawind, and My Laddie-Lady Gandrew, full brother of the great Rural Rube, has been to the post 22 times this season, winning three, placing in five and running third in four races.

Rounding out the field are Town Court, owned by Joseph Ayotte; Young Senator, R. R. Bleakley's Kansas Tom, Lucky Peg, Lucky Ina, Pretty Bad.

KingColeRetired Fenelon Hurt,

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP)—William Woodward's Fenelon, the season's best 3-year-old, will be away from the races for an indefinite period and Ogden Phipps' good 2-year-old, King Cole, has been retired for the season, Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons announced yesterday.

Fenelon, Fitzsimmons said, hit his stifle coming out of the gate in the New York Handicap at Belmont Saturday and was unable to get out of his stall Monday.

It will be a week or so before the trainer can determine whether to keep the colt in training for the remainder of the fall campaign. King Cole, second in the Belmont Futurity, will be reserved for the big 3-year-old specials next spring.

CYO Champs Are Honored By Cardinal

Presentation of trophies to the baseball champions of three Catholic Youth Organization Leagues was made by William Cardinal O'Connell at his home in Lake st.

Praising all for their good work and exhorting them to continue it next year Cardinal O'Connell presented foot-high silver figures of baseball players to the team captains and congratulated them on the play which saw them victorious in tourneys in which 4000 boys participated.

Harlow Praises Ivy League

Commenting on the upsets which Franklin-Marshall and Virginia handed Dartmouth and Yale, respectively, and the narrow margin which accompanied the win of Harvard over Amherst, Harlow said:

"I think the teams in the Ivy League—if there is such a thing are playing football that is just as good today as it was in 1916. I'll put it stronger than that—they are playing better football than they ever did!

"The real story is that there is no such thing as a setup in the game of football today. The game itself has developed at an amazing pace. There are 150 good boys playing prep school football today to one in years gone by. A great many of them are going to small colleges. And I think it's a great thing for the game of football."

With Newson and Derringer pitching superbly, the Tigers and Reds went out in order in the opening inning.

Bartell, McCosky and Gehringer skied out for the Tigers in the initial frame, while Werber lined to left, M. McCormick fanned, and Bartell tossed out Goodman as the Reds failed to threaten.

Greenberg opened the second with a single off Myers' glove, but Werber came up with a one-handed catch of York's roller and threw him out on a great play, Greenberg taking second. Campbell dribbled one to Derringer, and Greenberg was caught off second. Joost tossed out Higgins to end the frome.

With two out in the Reds' half, Jimmy Willson lined a single to left, and stole second when Newsom violated accepted pitching procedure by taking a full windup. Gehringer ended the threat by throwing out Joost. Wilson's steal was the first of the series.

Detroit put together two hits, a sacrifice and an error to score a run in the third inning today to take a 1 to 0 lead.

Sullivan opened the third with a single down the first base line, and Newsom advanced him with a sacrifice. Bartell popped out, and McCoskey drew a walk.

Gerringer banged a single off Werber's glove, and Sullivan scored when the third sacker made a wild throw past first. Derringer fanned Hank Greenberg, with two on, after the count had reached three balls and no strikes.

A.L. Takes Over Pro Grid Team

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 8 (AP)—Formation of a corporation to take over the Milwaukee franchise in the American Football League was voted by the county council of the American Legion last night.

The Milwaukee Football Club, Inc., which operated the Milwaukee Chiefs, lost the franchise when it failed to post franchise and assessment fees.

W. D. Griffith, of Columbus, O., president of the league, gave Ivan Cahoon, coach of the team, and the players, an option to take it over after the club ran into financial difficulties and failed to pay their salaries.

Cahoon will turn over the option to the Legion corporation.

New Record For Series Gate Due in Cinci

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (INS)—The current World Series was expected today to set a record for gate receipts though not for attendance.

Old mark for receipts is $1,304,399 for six games between Yankees and Giants in 1936. This includes $100,000 broadcasting fee. Largest attendance was 328,051 for seven games between Yankees and Cardinals in 1926. Attendance for six games in this series is 255,073 and with Crosley Field holding only a little more than 30,000 that figure can't be touched today.

Including the broadcast fee of $100,000, receipts to date for this series are $1,201,023.09.

Connecticut Big Cars In Weymouth Races

Connecticut's big car drivers will be at Weymouth next Saturday for the Columbus Day races at the Fair Grounds with the feature race over the 10-mile route.

George Bouley and Bud Hardt, both of Waterbury, Chet Conklin, Danbury, Ted Hanley, New Britain, and Joe Grant, Milford, are the Nutmeg staters in the whirl.

Crusaders Prepare For Carnegie Tech

WORCESTER, Oct. 8 (INS)—The Crusaders of Holy Cross shook out new lances today, replacing the ones shattered by the Bayou Bengale of Louisiana State. Coach Joe Sheeketski began preparations for Carnegie Tech nevt Saturday, using the mistakes of last Saturday as lessons. No serious injuries were reported.

A HAPPY WARRIOR—Bucky Walters grins triumphantly in the shower after his 4 to 0 conquest of the Tigers in the sixth World Series game. Win was his second of series, and sent the affair into the seventh game this p. m. in Cincinnati.

Colonels Rely on Ex-Red Sox To Stay in Little World Series

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8 (INS)—Tex Hughson, whose three triumphs over Kansas City put the Louisville Colonels in the Little World Series, defeated Newark for the second time here last night to prevent the Bears, who lead, 3 to 2, from clinching the series. The score was 6 to 2, with Hughson, a slim right-hander, keeping nine Newark hits well scattered and striking out eight batters.

George Washburn, winner of the first game, started for the Bruins and gave up eight before Allan Gettel relieved him in the eighth. One of the Louisville blows was a homer by Art Parks to break a 2-2 deadlock in the fourth.

Louisville added an unearned tally in the fifth and came up with two more in the eighth when Woody Williams greeted Gettel with a single after Kampouris' error and Andres' single, plus a passed ball, put Washburn in trouble.

Henry Majeski formerly of the Bees contributed three hits including a double to Newark's futile attack. The sixth game will be played here this evening with C. Heck, winner of the second tilt, hurling for Newark against Charlie Wagner formerly of the Red Sox and winner of eleven straight for the Colonels.

RULES GOVERNING THE FOOTBALL CONTEST

NO. 3

The object of the Daily Record-American Football Contest is to select winners of twenty collegiate football games, to be played each Saturday. Anyone may enter the contest, excepting employes of the Record-American and their families.

The selections are listed on the chart here which is ready to be filled out by the contestant. Simply place an (X) in the space nearest the name of the team you think will win, or if you predict a tie game, place the letter (T) in the spaces nearest the names of the tieing teams.

Calculate the AVERAGE score of all competing teams, except those for which you predicted a tie score. Write winners' and losers' average score in space provided for respect. Do not write individual scores in spaces, or on the coupon. Indicate average scores only by adding scores of all teams and then divide the total by the number of teams competing.

Only ONE solution may be entered by a contestant. All entries must be in the office of the Record-American not later than Midnight Friday, the day before the games.

You need not buy a copy of the Record or American to enter this contest. Tracings of the contest form may be made from copies in the public library, or in the Record-American office. Such entries will be acceptable, and given equal consideration with those clipped from these newspapers.

A prize of $100.00 will be awarded the person giving entries containing all selections correct. If more than one person submits perfect solutions $100.00 will be awarded the tieing contestant whose average score tabulations most nearly match the actual average scores of the games. If no perfect list of selections is entered, $50.00 will be awarded to the contestant having the nearest number of selections correct, and should two or more contestants tie for this prize the tieing contestant submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the award. A prize of $25.00 will be awarded the person submitting the second largest number of correct selections and should two or more contestants tie for this prize tieing contestants submitting the most nearly correct average scores will receive the prize. Twenty-five awards of $1.00 each will be given the twenty-five contestants whose entries contain in succession, the next largest number of correct selections and whose average scores most nearly match the actual average scores of the games.

Winners of each week's contest will be announced on the Saturday following the games. The decision of the judges in all cases shall be final.

Mail all entries to the Record-American Football Contest Editor, P. O. Box 1987, Boston, Mass.

In the event of postponement of any of the games, such games will automatically be excluded from the contest. In the event that the planned date of any game scheduled is changed then that game is automatically excluded.

Fans' Queries On Hearst Shoot Are Answered

Inquiries continue to pour in concerning the rules and regulations governing the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition to be held throughout New England under the sponsorship of the Boston American-Record.

In answer to queries some of the more important rules are reprinted today. This competition is open to:

Any established rifle league conducted by a rifle club or association and composed of senior citizen riflemen.

NOT LESS THAN FOUR TEAMS

Any league organized for the purpose of these matches, composed of senior citizen rifle teams in the New England district.

Furthermore leagues may consist of not less than four teams. Where leagues are not in existence the American-Record will co-operate in the formation of new leagues for the purpose of these matches.

Where leagues are already established they may be entered as a unit and participate in the competition under their present officers. Leagues may continue their course of fire, schedule, handicapping system and prize schedule as used in the past under N. R. A. Rules must govern the firing and final decisions must rest with the Hearst newspapers.

APRIL 15 DEADLINE

The schedule of matches must be so arranged that every team will rifle against every other team in the league at least once. As soon as the schedule has been approved by the team representatives, the secretary will forward two copies for the rifle editor of the American-Record, together with the names and addresses of all team captains and two complete sets of the league conditions.

Scheduled matches must be completed and league championships determined not later than April 15, 1941. Hearst championships will be fired about May 1, 1941.

Leagues may draft their own regulations designating the number of shooters who may fire and the number of scores to count for record in the league matches.

SHOULDER TO SHOULDER

In the Hearst championships competing will include four shooters (all scores to count) and a coach. League championships will be determined on the basis of matches won and lost. A handicap system may be used. Whenever possible league matches will be fired on a shoulder-to-shoulder basis.

'SCHOOLBOY' GOAT OF WORLD SERIES

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8 (AP)—Bits of baseball banter:

The guy responsible for either Cincinnati or Detroit losing today's grand finale of the World Series is likely to be a mite unpopular with his mates.

There's about $2100 difference between the individual shares of the winners and losers, and these athletes think almost as much of money as they do of their base knocks.

* * *

The several hundred newspapermen covering the classic are getting tired of it all. One of the boys in the press box came up today with an observation just about summing up the consensus.

"Those Yanks are my kind of team," he declared. "They get you back home in a hurry."

* * *

The scribes, who like to think of themselves as experts on things baseballish, are getting a kicking around from the Reds and Tigers. Before the series the typewriter pounders declared it was strictly a scrap between Detroit's power, hampered by a shaky infield and Cincinnati's pitching, aided by a fine fielding inner works but handicaped by lack of hitting.

With the thing practically over, just about the reverse has popped up. The Reds have out-hit the Tigers, 51 to 49, while the Tigers have erred but four times to seven for the Redlegs.

* * *

The Red infield, however, is right on the heels of one of the fall classic's most coveted records—that of making the most twin-killings in a series. They have nine to their credit and they need one today to tie the mark set in 1924 by the Washington Senators. Last year the Reds tied the record (one) for having the least number of double plays in a series, and back in 1919 they teamed up with the Chicago Black Sox to register the greatest two-team total (16) the Reds getting seven and the Sox nine.

* * *

It's nice work, this baseball. The two clubs have been at it about two and a half hours a day for six days, but the gate receipts hopped up to $1,101,023.09 yesterday. And those players will split $373,830.56—which isn't bad for about nine hours work, since they share only in receipts from the first four contests.

* * *

Unless something happens today to change the scene, it looks as if Bill Werber, Cincinnati's third sacker, will be the series hero, with Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe being the biggest disappointment (more commonly known as the "goat"). Werber, the guy who couldn't hit, is leading both teams with a handsome .455 mark on six singles and four doubles in 23 times at bat. But long, lean, lanky Rowe, who won 16 and lost but three in his comeback attempt this year, has been a complete flop against the Reds. He has been in there 3 2-3 innings and has surrendered 12 hits and seven earned runs. His earned run average for the two tilts is 17.18.

* * *

Paul Derringer is today's positive pitching choice for Cincinnati, but the Detroit selection was a bit hazy. As one of the more flippant scribes put it:

"If the Tigers show up for the game, after that shellacking Walters gave 'em, they probably will use Bridges or Newsom."

When Your Dog begins to Scratch You Owe Him Relief

A dog's blood may be continually affected by impurities, produced by the restraint of domestic life, improper food, lack of natural exercise and impaired elimination. These conditions act to set up an inverse irritation in the nerve endings of his skin. No wonder he is fretful, nervous. He is in torment.

He looks to YOU for help and you can give it—QUICKLY.

Rex Hunters Tasteless Dog Powders provide blood tonic elements and a reconstructive for dogs of all breeds, any age. Given regularly on Saturday each week they act to quickly relieve disorders due to lack of proper conditioning that cause continuous scratching, loose coat, listlessness, poor appetite, bad breath and skin irritations. They work to make your pet happier, healthier and more contented.

Ask at your Drug Store or Pet Shop for Rex Hunters Dog Powders—Keep Dogs Fit.
